

Expect New Arrests In Church Tragedy

Bank Vault Of Pastor's Widow
Is Searched By Authorities

FINDINGS ARE KEPT SECRET

Newspapermen Are Barred
From Court House As Officials Examine Testimony

By Associated Press
New Brunswick, N. J.—Officials conducting the investigation into the murder of Edward W. Hall, rector of the Episcopal church of St. John the Evangelist, and his choir leader, Mrs. Eleanor Reinhardt Mills, on Sept. 14, were at the court house early Wednesday.

While newspapermen again were barred from the court it was understood that Prosecutor Beekman of Somerset county and his assistants began at once consideration of stenographic copies of statements taken Tuesday from relatives of the slain rector, including those of Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, his widow, and her two brothers, Henry and Willie Stevens.

None of the officials or detectives would admit any prediction as to what may be expected Wednesday. Crowds of curious persons attracted there by persistent rumors that two more arrests may be expected at any time, gathered about the court house to await developments.

Mrs. Hall was summoned from her home to open her safety deposit vault at the People's National bank. What was found in the vault was not disclosed.

Meanwhile detectives were checking up on newly acquired information. Great secrecy as to its nature was maintained. One angle, it was learned, necessitated a trip to LaValette, N. J., home of Henry Stevens, brother of the rector's widow.

SPIED UPON, BELIEF
Publication Wednesday of love notes written by Mrs. Mills to Hall disclosed that the pair were conscious they were being spied upon.

In one ardent note, in which the choir singer described the "love nest" she would maintain if she were rich, she concluded:

"Darling, I could rave for hours—but I must stop as there are peepers around."

In another she said:

"When I said that I would leave a note, I forgot that it may not be wise. But I may take a chance, for I cannot have you disappointed, even though it isn't much."

BELIEVES IN HUSBAND
A friend of Mrs. Hall who broke fasted at the Hall home Wednesday morning declared the rector's widow was greatly agitated when she saw morning papers containing copies of Mrs. Mills' letters to Mr. Hall.

"Impossible, impossible," she exclaimed. "My husband was pure souled. He was wrapped up in the doing of the Lord's work."

She also was noted again as protesting vigorously that the letters purporting to have been written to Mrs. Mills by the minister were not genuine, and to have spoken bitterly of "Charlotte Mills" for having sold them to any newspaper.

STOP REMARRIAGE TO HALT DIVORCES

By Associated Press
Milwaukee, Wis.—An act to prohibit remarriage within five years of a divorced person has been drafted by Judge John J. Gregory of the circuit court and will be presented to the next session of the state legislature.

Judge Gregory believes the proposed statute would be a check upon the growing divorce evil. His bill, however, includes a provision whereby a divorced person may remarry within the five year period upon application to the court, which, at its discretion, may authorize such remarriage.

"There ought to be much consideration to the marriage state," said Judge Gregory, who hears hundreds of divorce cases annually. "A check should be placed on legalized polygamy and polyandry."

POLISHING CLOTH IS CAUSE OF FIRE

A polishing cloth which caught fire and was supposed to have been extinguished is believed to have been the cause of a blaze and consequent loss of about $150 at the home of A. Weissberger, 375 Second-ave. about 11 o'clock Tuesday morning.

The fire department extinguished the flames just as they were eating through the doorway of a woodshed into the kitchen. One wall and a door frame were charred.

Mrs. Weissberger had been wiping off the surface of a kitchen stove. The cloth caught fire and she extinguished it. The cloth then was hung on a wall of the shed, where a spark unnoticed before evidently ignited the material and caused the wall to catch fire.

"Adorable Babykins" Letters To Slain Pastor Are Revealed

By Associated Press
New Brunswick, N. J.—A second series of the letters said to have been written by Mrs. Eleanor Mills, wife of the church sexton and choir leader, to the Rev. Edward W. Hall, was made public Wednesday by the authorities as they continued their efforts to solve the mystery of the slaying of the couple Sept. 14.

Unaddressed and unsigned the letters are filled with terms of endearment. In them the minister is often referred to as "sweet, adorable babykins." They speak of "a love nest," of a woman's dreams of "true love" and describe the varied moods of a woman "loved and loved without the conventions."

Excerpts from the letters follow:

"Dearest, Dearest Boy:
"Wasn't I happy to find a sweet note, for I didn't expect you would risk leaving one for me yesterday? Such delicious exclamations."

"My Darling, how well you seem today. I am tired. I want to lie and rest for hours. Oh, you sweet adorable babykins of mine."

"The note I left yesterday was crumpled but I had to hide it in my purse as I met him."

"I'd build a waiting love nest. But I would rather watch the bugs and ants as they crawl along. Don't you love to watch an ant as it creeps along, honey?"

"And darling sweetheart I long for our love to be the truest—ideal—as pure as we can make it, for then it is truest to nature."

"I know I'm a crazy cat. "Charlotte talks—then Doris asks questions, then annoys, so how can I write?"

"Darling mine didn't you feel me purring—blissfully contented? and close to you too?"

"My sweetheart true hearts could crush you. Oh, I am wild tonight. One time I told you I hated your work—I hated your parish, guess it is because I am jealous of it, because it must come first in your life. No because of conventions, but because you love it so. Oh, I know it because you are a true priest—born for it."

"I have the greatest of all blessings—a noble man's deep, true eternal love and my heart is his—my life is his—all I have is his— I am his forever."

"I will hate the winter nights. Then I dream of curling up in a chair with you—Oh, what dreams I have. Will it ever be?"

"I am holding my sweet babykins face in my hands and looking deep into his heart and reading there the message that makes me live—gives me strength and life."

EXPECT CITY OF MILWAUKEE TO BAR KU KLUX

Believe Socialist Mayor Will Lead Opposition To Granting
Use Of Auditorium

By Associated Press
Milwaukee—Led by Mayor Daniel W. Hoan, the Auditorium board is expected Wednesday night to refuse permission to the Ku Klux Klan to hold a meeting in the big city building.

This action is indicated by a letter written by Mayor Hoan in reply to a communication from C. Lewis Fowler, Atlanta, Ga., in which the latter attempts to explain some "misapprehensions" of the Klan entertained in this city, which Mr. Fowler had recently visited.

Mayor Hoan's reply to Mr. Fowler reads in part:

"Your letter of Oct. 16 stating that you have been sojourning here from Atlanta, Ga., in the interests of the invisible empire is before me.

"You inform me that the Ku Klux Klan has been grossly misrepresented and you set forth in full the purposes and alleged virtues of the order.

"Let me say, first, that for law and order this city stands first among all the cities of the world. Consequently, for you to come here from the state where lynching is the most popular outdoor sport, to tell our people that they need this organization with its hoods and nighties to insure law and order, is in itself ridiculous. We encourage all, including yourself, to bring to our officials in the ordinary way, any evidence of lawbreaking—we are ready to deal with crime. Any claim, therefore, that hooded knights of an invisible empire directed from your imperial palace are needed here to enforce law and order is a clear fraud.

"Secondly, any organizations of disguised men can lead nowhere except to law-breaking and violence."

Killed Twins, Charge; Only Rag Dolls, She Says

By Associated Press
Hammond, Ind.—Accused by her middle aged husband of killing the two babies, twins, which he said were born to her last December, Mrs. Hazel McNally, 24, faced trial here Wednesday, claiming the missing twins were nothing more than cleverly constructed dummy dolls mothered by her until last April, to satisfy her husband's ambition to be known to the world as a father.

In support of her claim, Mrs. McNally declared she told her husband, after their marriage in April, 1921, that she had undergone an operation at Green Bay, Wis., in 1919 which made it impossible for her to become

FIX MAXIMUM PRICE OF COAL TO WISCONSIN

Six Dollars A Ton At Mines Is Decided Upon—Freight
Doubles Cost

By Associated Press
Madison—A maximum price of $6 a ton at the mines for prepared sizes of bituminous coal for domestic use has just been agreed upon by operators of the smokeless field of West Virginia furnishing the greater part of Wisconsin coal, P. H. Pressentini, secretary of the state fuel committee announced Wednesday.

Freight charges he said, will probably double this price before it reaches the state.

Conference is being held Wednesday between operators of each of the 15 coal producing districts east of the Mississippi river and the federal fuel distributor, to decide upon a maximum price on soft coal for these districts.

Agreement has been reached with hard coal mine operators representing 75 per cent of the output of Pennsylvania mines, for a maximum charge of $8.50 a ton at the mines. The remaining 25 per cent of the operators are said to be charging from $9.25 to $14.25 a ton.

When a definite maximum price is established at the mines, the task involved in preventing profiteering will be much simplified for the state committee, Mr. Pressentini said.

No further advice has been received of hard coal shipments, although assurance has been received from Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce and C. E. Spens, federal fuel distributor, that shipments to the lakes will be speeded up.

LABOR FIGHTS KANSAS COURT; POLITICS DULL

Republican Majority So Great
That Voters Are Indifferent

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1922, by Post Publishing Co.
Wichita, Kan.—Kansas is taking this election with the utmost complacency. There's no emotion about it—neither anger nor enthusiasm, indignation or satisfaction.

The 1920 Republican majority for Governor Henry J. Allen was 100,000. Indifference as well as the effect of state issues will reduce that figure somewhat. Conservative estimates are made that W. Y. Morgan, Republican, will be elected governor by a vote of from 30,000 to 40,000 to succeed Governor Allen, who was not a candidate for a third term.

Are the farmers sympathetic with capital or labor? They showed in the primaries that they had felt the ill effects of the last rail strike.

This industrial court problem is still in the experimental stage. Labor is fighting the scheme hard and the state employers' association is finding fault with it, too. Of the cases which have arisen, the employer side has found the court ruling against them in more cases than it has given a verdict against labor.

LABOR DEMOCRATIC
The lineup in the election in the industrial court issue is not clearly defined. The Republican nominee, of course, is in favor of the maintenance of an industrial court. The Democratic candidate criticizes it severely. Labor will be Democratic. But the farmers and the other elements who want to see the court upheld as a means of ending strikes will swing the election for the Republican ticket.

More interesting perhaps than the election contest, if indeed it can be called that in Kansas this year, are some phases of the industrial court law. The Supreme court of this state to which appeals can be taken directly from the decisions of the industrial court, will be kept busy with cases the next few years. The Supreme court of the United States will have the final say in many of the disputes. For example: The Wolf Packing company of Topeka, is appealing to the Supreme court of the United States on the ground that the wages which the Kansas industrial court ordered it to pay are too great and do not permit a fair return of capital invested and this, it is alleged, constitutes a confiscation of property without due process of law.

The controversy between William Allen White, editor of the Emporia (Kan.) Gazette, and Governor Allen, or rather the state of Kansas for Mr. White is under arrest for alleged violation of the anti picketing provision of the labor law.

Twilight Sleep Makes Men Tell Truth, He Says

By Associated Press
Hot Springs, Ark.—Criminals can be forced to tell the truth regarding their offenses while under the influence of otopolamine anesthesia, or as it is better known, during twilight sleep, according to Dr. E. E. House, Ferris, Texas, physician, who has asked the endorsement of the medical association of the southwest for a proposed experiment on a thousand prisoners in Leavenworth penitentiary to demonstrate his theory.

Dr. House has been experimenting with the anesthesia for five years, he told members of the association and declared in that period during which number of alleged criminals and other method of securing evidence on a he had tried the "twilight sleep" in his own state, he "had never failed in any attempt to rob the mind of its stored truths."

HANZEL STEPS OUT OF RACE FOR CONGRESS

Antigo Man Withdraws To Leave Clear Field For
Judge Henry Graess

The political situation in the Ninth congressional district was clarified Wednesday morning when Charles J. Hanzel, Antigo Democrat, candidate for election to congress, formally announced withdrawal from the race. In a statement issued Wednesday Mr. Hanzel said that in view of the fact that he had received an insufficient number of votes in the primary election to place his name on the Democratic ticket and that there are now two avowed candidates in the field, he would withdraw.

Mr. Hanzel's decision leaves the campaign up to Judge Henry Graess of Green Bay, Republican Progressive Independent candidate, and George S. Schneider, Appleton, Republican nominee supported by Senator LaFollette. Judge Graess' name will appear in the independent column of the Nov. 7 election.

Following is the statement issued by Mr. Hanzel:

"To the voters of the Ninth congressional district—

"Owing to the fact that there were insufficient votes cast for me at the primary election to secure the placing of my name in the Democratic Column on the election ballot; and owing to the Supreme Court's refusal to order such candidates' names, who had received insufficient votes to be placed in the Democratic Column at the General Election; and in view of the fact that the voters of this Congressional District have so decidedly expressed their views in the primary; and in as much as there are now two avowed candidates in the field, and not desiring to confuse the voters in a three cornered race, I herewith withdraw my name as a candidate for Member of Congress in the Ninth Congressional District."

"I desire at this time to thank my friends, who have so kindly rendered support to my candidacy."

30,000 Legion Men In Parade At New Orleans

'HEALER' DEAD;
POLICE HUNT
YOUNG WOMAN

Francis Schlatter, "Divine,"
Dies Suddenly In
St. Louis

By Associated Press
St. Louis—The death of Francis Schlatter, alleged "divine healer" in a rooming house here Monday night, was caused from hemorrhages superinduced by tuberculosis it was announced following an autopsy Wednesday. The autopsy was performed following an assertion of Mrs. Schlatter, who arrived here from Kansas City that she believed her husband to have been the victim of foul play.

Police however, are continuing their search for a young woman who was with him for several days preceding his death.

HAD MANY IMITATORS
Mrs. Schlatter Wednesday denied that her husband was the Francis Schlatter who was convicted in Los Angeles in 1917 on a charge of using the mails to defraud in connection with selling by mail "blessed handkerchiefs" to persons seeking relief from illness. She declared this man was one of the several alleged impostors who took advantage of Mr. Schlatter's popularity and limited him, so far as even assume his name.

Schlatter was an eccentric character often wandering to the mountains to recover from the strain of his missions. He is pictured as preaching his missions to thousands from the hills in the Rocky Mountains and multitudes flocked to hear "the divine healer." He wore a picturesque long black flowing beard and was attired in a black robe.

DROPS OUT OF SIGHT
After disappearing several times he finally dropped out of sight and the local police several times received telegrams from his wife who formerly made her home in Chicago asking aid in searching for her husband.

At one time Schlatter was given nationwide publicity as the man who "cured" Mrs. McKinley, mother of President McKinley.

SMALL INCREASE IN VALUATION OF COUNTY PROPERTY

Personal Property Assessments
Decreased By $3,000,000
In Year

Total real estate value in Outagamie county for the year 1922, according to the county assessment made public Monday by John A. Lonsdorf, supervisor of assessors, shows but a small increase over that of the previous year. The increase was from $63,099,403 in 1921 to $63,580,058 in 1922. Increase in building activities helped to counteract the depreciation following the business depression. Personal property decreased in value from $15,943,567 to $12,563,508. Depletion of pulp wood stocks and decrease in value were responsible for a substantial decrease in the personal property values. The total of all taxable property is $76,148,566. There is an automobile for every nine persons in Outagamie county. It means that practically every third family in the county owns a car. On May 1, 1922, there were 6,004 automobiles in the county, representing a value of $1,848,405. This was an increase of almost 500 motorcars over the number in 1921. In that year, 5,445 cars were assessed. Compared with the 1920 census of the county, which was 55,118, and allowing about four persons to the family, the number of cars represents a total of about 35 per cent of the number of families.

FEWER HORSES

For several years horses have shown an annual decrease in number. In 1921 there were 12,276 horses. The number at the last assessment was 11,934. The value was set at $191,042, which is about half the value of the automobiles, although there are twice as many horses as automobiles.

For the first time in the history of the tax commission, cows show a decrease in number. The 1921 assessment showed 53,587, that of 1922 being 53,430, representing a value of $1,775,480. Sheep decreased from 2,238 in 1921 to 1,939 in 1922. Hogs also have decreased from 10,316 to 11,159.

Pork stock likewise shows a decrease of a few thousand dollars from the 1921 figure which was $1,851,044, as compared with $1,432,256. This is the first time in many years that pork stock decreased.

The detailed list of personal property assessments follows:

	Number	Value
Horses	11,934	$191,042
Cows	53,430	1,775,480
Sheep	1,939	24,907
Hogs	11,159	147,175
Wagons	20,425	159,756
Automobiles	6,004	1,848,405
Trucks		5,650
Tractors		74,725
Franchises		24,664
Pork Stock		1,432,256
Motorcycles		6,550
Merchandise		5,042,014
Miscellaneous		731,971

The item "wagons" includes buggies and sleighs. In the item "franchises" stock is not included. The item "franchises" refers to small local companies only.

NOT ACTUAL VALUES

"An important point to be remembered when studying tax assessments," said Mr. Lonsdorf, "is that in some districts the assessor assesses on a basis of 100 cents on the dollar, while others assess at 75 cents, and some as low as 50 cents on the dollar. For this reason the assessed values are not always the actual values or market values."

"Various assessors, however, do not as a rule, make much change from year to year in the basis, and for this reason the assessments give up some idea as to the upward or downward trend of values. The basis on which an assessor values has nothing to do with high or low taxes, if he treats all alike in his district."

Dancers and music lovers of Appleton will be offered a treat next Friday evening when the Royal Tropical Marmite Land of Guatemala.

DEC. 16 LAST DAY TO APPLY TO U. S. FOR WAR PAYMENTS

Disability Claims Must Be Filed
With Bureau Within Two Months

Every disabled former service man or woman who feels that he or she is entitled to government training must make application for the same prior to Dec. 16, 1922.

The act of congress making appropriations to supply deficiencies in appropriations for one fiscal year ending June 30, 1921, and prior fiscal years, and for other purposes, approved June 16, 1921, contains this provision:

"That any person entitled under the provisions of the vocational rehabilitation act as amended to take vocational training must make application therefor within 18 months from the date of the approval of this act."

No applications for vocational training under the vocational rehabilitation act can, therefore, be considered unless such applications are submitted prior to Dec. 16, 1922.

C. OF C. TO EXPLAIN ZONING THRU MOVIES

Operation of zoning laws will be shown here in motion pictures some time this fall by the chamber of commerce. A film entitled "Growing Pains" and dealing with this topic has been produced by the American City Bureau of New York.

Secretary Hugh G. Corbett had requested its use. The bureau has consented. It will be exhibited at one of the forum meetings.

It is hoped that the film will be considered unless such applications are submitted prior to Dec. 16, 1922.

This application for vocational training of any disabled former service person will be interpreted to mean any written application or communication from such a person expressing a desire for vocational training. In other words, a letter from a service man bearing his signature and stating that he wishes to make application for training will be sufficient to insure him a consideration of his claim.

All men and women who served in the armed forces of the United States during the World war, and who incurred a disability, either through wounds or diseases, due to service, which would prevent their "carrying on" in their pre-war occupations are entitled to government training.

KONOP WILL PRACTICE LAW IN MILWAUKEE

Thomas F. Konop of Kewaunee, former member of the state industrial commission, has decided to practice law in Milwaukee, according to a Madison report. He will form a partnership with James T. Drought.

Konop was appointed to the industrial commission by former Gov. E. L. Philipp and was succeeded by E. A. Tarrell of Burlington, a Blaine appointee, little more than a year ago.

CANVASS OF HOMES URGED AS WAY TO APPORTION COAL

Production Nearing Normal Basis At Mines C. Of C. Survey Shows

With coal production just now getting back to the average of the period previous to the strike, concern is being exercised by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States as to how householders will be supplied with enough fuel for their needs during the next few months. The organization is about to urge its local chambers, including the one in Appleton, to arrange a house-to-house canvass to learn what the actual needs are and to establish a rationing system so none will suffer hardship.

Encouraging figures as to production of coal are shown in a bulletin received by Secretary Hugh G. Corbett of the local chamber, reporting progress up to Sept. 30. It indicates that the anthracite tonnage of 30 came nearest approximating the weekly average before the strike of any period during the suspension of activities from April 1 to Sept. 9.

PRODUCTION GROWS
The production for the week ending April 1 was 1,896,000 tons. It dropped to 9,000 tons for the week of April 8 and remained at low figures until Sept. 9, when it climbed to 53,000 tons. The following week with the men back at work, the production was 1,036,000 tons. It jumped to 1,856,000 tons during the week ending Sept. 23 and 1,900,000 tons on Sept. 30.
Production of bituminous coal is not quite back to normal, the figures show. For the week ending March 25 the yield was 11,457,500 tons. The figures began to climb in August and passed the 9,000,000 mark Sept. 2. The tonnage for the week ending Sept. 30 was 9,800,000 tons.

STOCK GONE
Retailers of the country have practically no stocks of coal on hand, the survey shows. Public utilities are supplied for about 45 days. Industries can keep up for 45 days, it is estimated. Coke and oil are coming into use in larger amounts as fuel as the result of the shortage.
The home distribution problem is not as serious in centers where bituminous coal is used, but is acute in places where much anthracite is used. Chambers of commerce are urged to take this matter in hand before cold weather sets in. Industries having a surplus of coal are admonished to refrain from buying until others with no coal can catch up. A willingness to wait will mean an early distribution to all, it is said, and a more rapid approach to normal conditions.

Gwyn Bowen, golf instructor of Riverview Country club, and Raymond Dowling of Oshkosh, left Tuesday on an automobile trip to Southern California, where they will spend the winter.

To the Voters of the Ninth Congressional District

Owing to the fact that there were insufficient votes cast for me at the primary election to secure the placing of my name in the Democratic Column on the election ballot; and owing to the Supreme Court's refusal to order such candidates' names, who had received insufficient votes to be placed in the Democratic Column at the General Election; and in view of the fact that the voters of this Congressional District have so decidedly expressed their views in the primary; and in as much as there are now two avowed candidates in the field, and not desiring to confuse the voters in a three cornered race, I herewith withdraw my name as a candidate for Member of Congress in the Ninth Congressional District.

I desire at this time to thank my friends, who have so kindly rendered support to my candidacy.

Petroleum and Independence

SAYS the Chicago Tribune, "The automobile has increased the ability of people to take care of themselves—America's streets and roads are filled with motor cars because—the American in his own car feels the independence of going where he pleases and when he pleases."

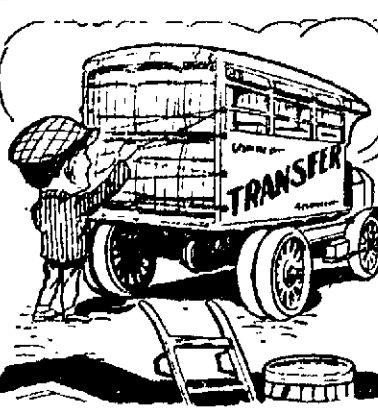

The effective use of automotive power depends upon an adequate supply and efficient distribution of gasoline and other petroleum products. The users of automobiles and motor trucks of the Middle West would find themselves seriously handicapped were it not for the practically universal distribution of gasoline and oils, maintained by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana). This distribution system is continually growing, expanding, and penetrating new corners of the 10 states served by the Company.

The number of automobiles in the United States increased 13% during the first six months of 1922 over 1921. The increase in the states served by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) during the past two years was over 36%. These figures give a fair idea of the rate of increase of distribution facilities required of this Company.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) expands in proportion to the increasing needs of the people it serves. It maintains 3973 bulk stations, so located as to assure rapid distribution of gasoline and oils. The number of these stations is promptly increased as the need for them arises. It maintains 1605 service stations, situated with a view to the convenience of the motoring public. It maintains throughout the rural districts 7167 tank wagons, which serve the farmer at regular intervals, enabling him to keep his truck, tractor, or motor car ready for instant use.

This efficient service of petroleum products is maintained at a high degree of effectiveness under all conditions and is the dominant factor in assuring the independence of the motorist of the Middle West.

Instant Quaker Oats

Cooks to perfection in 3 to 5 minutes

Ready at 7:05 Before the eggs or coffee

Now our experts have perfected an Instant Quaker Oats—the quickest-cooking oats in the world. Your grocer now has it as well as the regular.
Instant Quaker cooks in 3 to 5 minutes. The cooking is perfect—experts certify to that.

The same exquisite flavor

The fame of Quaker Oats is due to super-flavor. We flake the queen grains only—the rich, plump, flaky oats. We get but ten pounds from a bushel.

All the world over Quaker Oats dominates, because people love that flavor. And Quaker will always have it.

Instant Quaker is made from the same queen oats. The flavor is identical. But we cut the grains before flaking. Then we roll them thin and partly cook.

So the flakes are smaller and thinner—that is all. And those small, thin flakes cook quickly.

Now you have a double reason for selecting Quaker Oats. You get that exquisite flavor. And you get, if you wish, flakes that cook almost instantly. In either respect, there is no other oat dish in existence that compares.

Regular Quaker Oats

Come in package at left—the style you have always known.

Instant Quaker Oats

Come in package at right, with the extra "Instant" label. Your grocer has both. Be sure to get the style you want.

Do You Know How to Act in a Fire?

What would you do—
If someone's clothing caught on fire?

If you were trapped in a smoke-filled room?

If you had to care for someone overcome by smoke?

Also, do you know how to attack a small fire with a bucket of water or with an extinguisher?

Lives and wealth may depend upon what you do in the first few minutes after a fire starts.

All of these things are explained in the Fire Booklet prepared by the National Board of Fire Underwriters for the United States Bureau of Education.

It also explains in great detail how to reduce to a minimum the danger of fire which threatens every home in this country every minute.

No householder can afford to be without this splendid booklet, containing 54 pages of text and 50 marginal illustrations. NEW YORK TALENT AT PODUNK PRICE IS AIM OF SERIES

Appleton Offered Opportunity To See Noted Star At Nominal Price

Talent which costs approximately $5,000 will be presented here in the community artist and lecture series, the first number of which is to be a concert by Marie Sundelius in Lawrence Memorial chapel Friday evening. This fact gives the people an idea of the privilege they have in patronizing the series of ten numbers at an average single admission price of 50 to 60 cents.

The concerts would be almost prohibitive if it were not possible to secure contracts for groups of two or three high class entertainers at a figure lower than their individual fees. Some cities are paying $1,000 and more for the appearance of some of the leading artists on the course elected for Appleton. It is said by the local managers of the series that people are paying in New York to hear Marie Sundelius in grand opera, prices equal to what they are paying for the whole ten numbers in Appleton.

The fact that there still are a number of seats in the $4, $5 and $6 season groups unsold leads the committee in charge of this year's course to believe that some overlook the community service idea in bringing the artists and speakers here. All who have a part in promoting the course give their services gratis and the tickets are sold at a charge just large enough to cover actual cost of the numbers.

Should there be private enterprises in the venture with the intention of reaping a profit, sales could not be made under $10 for the season tickets, it is said. The artists that were desired were chosen and then a contract executed at the lowest figure the booking agencies would make. This arrangement has prevented sacrificing quality in entertainers in order to hold the expense down. The people therefore have a budget set before them which must be met collectively as their share in bringing exceptional talent to Appleton. It is expected that those who have not obtained season tickets will buy before the first number Friday, as it still is possible to select excellent seats from the chart at the office of George H. Beckley.

LAWRENCE CHOIR REHEARSES PLAYS

Proceeds Will Be Used To Buy Instruments For Musical Organizations

More than 120 Lawrence college students sang themselves late to supper on Monday evening at the first rehearsal of the Lawrence choir, which took place in Lawrence conservatory. The choir began its work on "Chimes of Normandy" which will be presented on two evenings late in January, the proceeds of which will be used for the purchase of string instruments including violins, violas, cellos and double basses for musical organizations in the city to use.

The choir is made up of 60 girls and 60 boys, who possess the best voices in Lawrence conservatory and Lawrence college. The members have been chosen to provide a well balanced organization to do the finer things in music. Two projects will be presented by the choir during the year under the direction of Prof. Earl Baker. The first is the comic opera which is perhaps next best to Robin Hood and the second is "Stabat Mater" by Rossini, which will be presented at the musical festival in the spring with a symphony orchestra.

HELP MUSICIANS

In developing his work with students in the conservatory and in the high school, Prof. Baker finds that there are many talented students, who would play well if they had the instruments, but conditions are such that they own no instruments. By means of the opera, enough money will be realized to purchase some string instruments, which will be the property of the conservatory, but which will be loaned to students. Everywhere effort is being made to provide instruments to students who cannot buy them and word has recently been sent from Green Bay that the Lions club is raising money for hand instruments to be used this way in Green Bay schools.

REHEARSALS PROGRESSING ON HIGH SCHOOL PAGEANT

Work on the Americanization pageant, "To Arms for Liberty" is progressing rapidly at Appleton high school and will be presented in the assembly room on Friday, Nov. 10 for the high school students. The choruses and the orchestra are doing nicely on the musical scores and the principal characters in the story are showing ability. Prof. Earl Becker has charge of the music of the production and Miss Ruth McKennan, the dramatic work.

Mild Fall

Natural History Student Says Prevalence of Snakes Indicates That Winter Still Is Far Removed.

Motorists have been puzzled this fall by the unusual number of snakes that glide across the road in front of their cars or rustle away in the bushes at its approach.

An explanation is offered by a student of natural history who said that snakes being out in numbers at this time of the year is an indication of a long, mild fall.

Generally by this time snakes have gone into winter quarters, he said.

CENTER EFFORT ON CHILD WELFARE IN GOOD HEALTH WEEK

Importance Of Birth Registration Will Be Emphasized At Clinic Here

The child health conference conducted by Dr. Mildred VanCleave under the auspices of Appleton Women's club health department on Oct. 24 and 25 probably will be the only observance made in Appleton of Good Health week, which is from Oct. 23 to 30. In many cities, Rotary and Lions clubs are combining with the manufacturers of sanitary and health products to put on interesting and instructive programs. The week also is being emphasized in schools and women's clubs.

It is possible that programs will be put on in the schools here during the week. Members of the health department of Appleton Women's club have been putting forth every effort to reach every mother in the city who has a child under two years of age or who is an expectant mother. Dr. VanCleave, who has had much experience in children's hospitals, will examine the mothers and children, giving expert advice as to the care of both.

INSIST ON RECORDS

Another feature of the conference will be the insistence on the importance of records of birth of children. Records of births is of great importance as it proves the child a citizen, aids in proving relationships, records his nationality and allows him to travel in a foreign country as an American citizen without danger of

On the edge of the sink-hole they halted. Smith turned and faced Clinch.

"What's the idea?" he asked with a quaver.

"Was you in Roost?"

"Yes."

"Was you an officer?"

"I was."

"Then you're givin'. You're a cop."

"You're mistaken."

"Ah, don't hand me none like that! You're a State Trooper or a Secret Service guy, or a plain, dirty cop. And I'm a-going to croak you."

"I'm not in the service, now."

"Wasn't you an officer?"

"Yes. Can't an officer go wrong?"

"Soft stuff. Don't feed it to me. I told you too much anyway. I was sakin' drunk. I'm drunk now, but I got some. You think I'll run hawks of sittin' in State's Prison for the next ten years and leave Eve out here alone? No. I gotta shoot you, Smith. And I'm a-going to do it. Gwan and say what you want if you think there's some kind of god you can square before you croak."

"If you go to the chair for murder, what good will it do Eve?" asked Smith. His lips were crackling dry, he moistened them.

"S'k he's don't talk," said Clinch. "Gwan and square yourself if you're the church kin."

"Clinch," said Smith, "I'm a-going to kill you now. You're as good as dead yourself. Quintana is here."

"Say, don't hand me that," retorted Clinch. "Do you square yourself or no?"

"I tell you Quintana's gang were at the dance tonight—Piquet, Salazar, Georgades, Sord, Beck, Jose Sanchoz—the one who looks like a French priest. Maybe he had a beard when you saw him in that safe wash-room."

"What?" shouted Clinch in sudden fury. "What yeh talkin' about, you poor, dumb, dingo. Yeh flaxin' to scare me? What do you know about Quintana? Are you one of Quintana's gang, too? Is that what you're up to, hidin' out at Star Pond? Come on, now, out with it. I'll have it all out of you now. Hal Smith, before I plug you—"

He came lurching forward, swinging his heavy pistol as though he meant to brain his victim, but he halted after the first step or two and stood there, a shadowy bulk, growling, enraged, undecided.

And, as Smith looked at him, two shadows detached themselves from the trees behind Clinch—silently, silently glided behind—struck in utter silence.

Quintana crashed Clinch, black-jacked, his face in the ooze. His pistol flew from his hand, struck Smith's leg, and Smith had it at the same instant and turned it like lightning on the murderous shadows.

"Hands up! Quick!" he cried, at bay now and his back to the sink-hole.

Pistol leveled, he bent one knee, pushed Clinch over on his back, lest the ooze suffocate him.

"Now," he said coolly, "what do you want of Mike Clinch?"

"Who are you?" came a sudden voice. "This is none of your bloody business. We want Clinch, not you."

"What do you want of Clinch?"

"Take your gun off us."

"Answer, or I'll let go at you. What do you want of Clinch?"

"Money. What do you think?"

"You're here to stick up Clinch?" inquired Smith.

"Yes. What's that to you?"

"What has Clinch done to you?"

"He stuck us up, that's what! Now, are you going to keep out of this?"

"No."

"We ain't going to hurt Clinch."

"You bet you're not. Where's the rest of your gang?"

"What gang?"

"Quintana's," said Smith, laughing. "A wild exhilaration possessed him."

"Turn your backs and sit down," he said. As the shadows formed behind him, he picked up a stick and buried it at them. They sat down hastily, hands up, back toward him.

"You'll both die where you sit," remarked Smith. "If you yell for help."

Clinch sighed heavily, stirred, groped on the damp leaves with his hands.

"I say," began the voice which Smith identified as Harry Beck's, "if you'll come in with us on this it will pay you, young man."

"No," drawled Smith. "I'll go it alone."

"It can't be done, old dear. You'll see if you try it on."

"Who'll stop me, Quintana?"

"Come," urged Beck, "and be a good pal. You can't manage it alone. We've got all night to make Clinch talk. We know how, too. You'll get your share."

"Oh, slow it," said Smith, watching Clinch, who was reviving. He sat up presently, and put both hands over his head. Smith touched him.

He turned on the shoulder and he turned his heavy, square head in a dazed way. Blood striped his visage. He gazed dully at Smith for a little while, then, seeming to recollect, the old glare began to light his pale eyes.

The next instant, however, Beck spoke again, and Clinch turned in astonishment and saw the two figures sitting there with backs toward Smith and hands up.

Clinch stared at the squatting forms, then slowly moved his head and looked at Smith and his leveled pistol.

"We know how to make a man squeal," said Harry Beck suddenly. "He'll talk. We can make Clinch talk, no fear! Leave it to us, old pal. Are you with us?" He started to look around over his shoulder and Smith hurled another stick and hit him in the face.

"Quiet then, Harry," he said. "What's my share if I go in with you?"

"One-sixth, same's we all got."

"What's it worth?" asked Smith, with a motion of caution toward Clinch.

"If I say a million you'll tell me I lie. But it's nearer three—or you can have my share. It is a go?"

"You'll not hurt Clinch when he comes too?"

"We'll make him talk, that's all. It may hurt him some."

"You won't kill him?"

"I swear by God—"

"Wait! Isn't it better to shoot him after he squeals? Here's a lovely sink-hole handy."

"Right-o! We'll make him talk the face off you, Harry," said Smith, cautioning Clinch to silence with a gesture.

"All right. Only you better make up your mind. That cave is likely to wake up now at any time," grumbled Beck.

Clinch looked at Smith. The latter smiled, leaned over, and whispered:

"Can you walk all right?"

Clinch nodded.

"Well, we'd better hear it. Quintana's whole gang is in these woods, somewhere, hunting for you, and they might stumble on us here, at any moment." And, to the two men in front, "Lie down flat on your faces. Don't stir, don't speak, or it's you for the sink-hole. Lie down. I tell you! That's it. Don't move till I tell you to."

Clinch got up from where he was sitting, cast one murderous glance at the prostrate forms, then followed Smith, noiselessly, over the stretch of sphagnum moss.

When they reached the house they saw Eve standing on the steps in her night-dress and bare feet, holding a lantern.

"Daddy," she whimpered, "I was frightened. I didn't know where you had gone—"

Clinch put his arm around her, turned his bloody face and looked at Smith.

"It's this," he said, "that I ain't forgetting, young fella. What you done for me you done for her."

"I gotta live to make a lady of her," Smith said, he added, thickly, "I'm much obliged to you, Hal Smith. Go to bed, girls—"

"You're bleeding, dad?"

"Aw, a twig scratched me. I been in the woods with Hal. Gwan to bed."

He went to the sink and washed his face, dried it, kissed the girl, and gave her a gentle shove toward the stairs.

"Hal and I is sittin' up talkin' business," he remarked, bolting the door and all the shutters.

When the girl had gone, Clinch went to a closet and brought back two Winchester rifles, two shotguns, and a box of ammunition.

"Gon' to see it out with me, Hal?"

"Sure," smiled Smith.

"Aw, right! Have a drink?"

"No."

"Aw, right. Where'll you set?"

"Anywhere."

"Aw, right. Set over there. They may try the back porch. I'll just set here a spell, n'then I'll kind er mosey 'round." Plug the first fella that tries a shutter, Hal."

"You bet."

Clinch came over and held out his hand.

"You said a face-full that time when you says to me, 'Clinch,' you says 'Eve is a lady.' I gotta fix her up. I gotta be alive to do it."

"That's why I'm greatly obliged to yeh, Hal."

He took his rifle and walked slowly toward the pantry.

"You bet," he muttered, "she is a lady, so help me God."

"Mary Dear"—Tenor, Billy Jones, Male Quartet BRUNSWICK RECORD 2321—75c

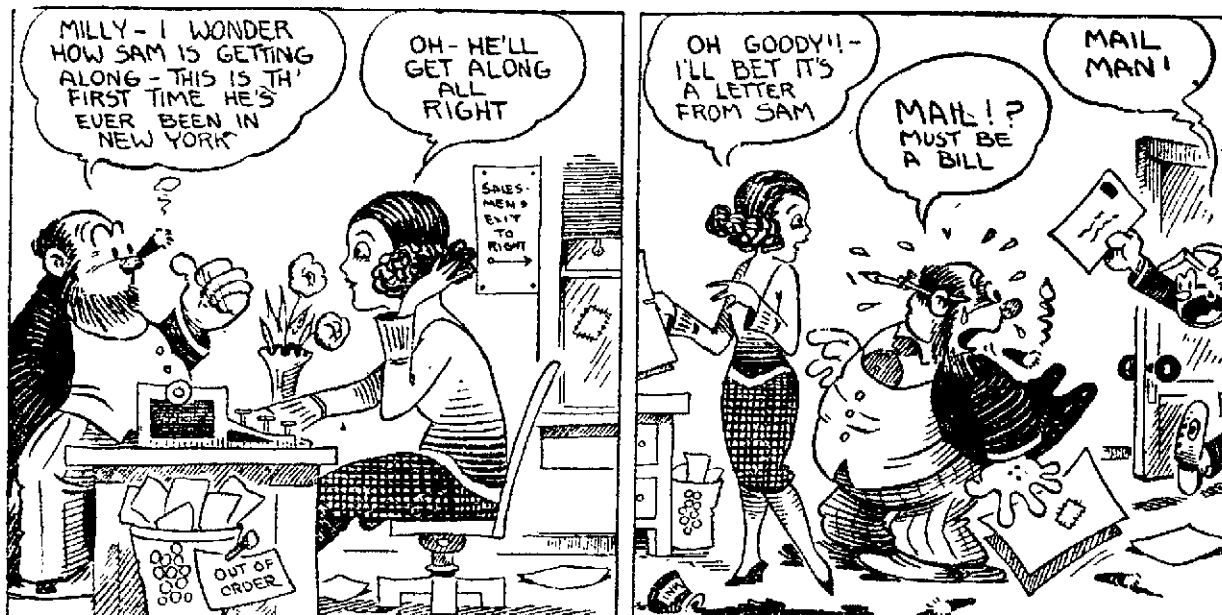

Such singers, actors and impersonators as Charles Hart, Elliott Shaw and Billy Jones are rarely used upon one disc, but for that popular song of sentiment, "Call Me Back Pal O' Mine," the first two artists joined forces and have given it a most colorful and appealing recording. Billy Jones, the one and only Billy, in association with four male friends who sing better than Billy, record "Mary Dear." You will enjoy every measure of both these popular and contrasted numbers.

MENDING SHOP IS PAYING DIVIDENDS IN MONEY AND FUN

Two New York Women Have Established Unique Enterprise

BY MARIAN HALE
Two clever women are taking every day the stitch in time that saves nine. And in doing so they are lending aid and comfort to the tired business woman, taking the furrows from the brow of the worried bachelor, saving the temper of many a busy housewife and — perhaps, once in a while, actually saving a home from being wrecked.

Incidentally, they're building up a prosperous business and the basis of a substantial fortune for themselves. The women are Mrs. Charles C. Ransom and Miss Lillian Anderson. They're partners in New York's newest business venture—a mending shop.

But let them tell you about it themselves—
"What time for mending has a woman who works in an office—or why should she be obliged to mend after a hard day's work? She's entitled to her evenings," says Miss Anderson.

"Oh who is there to look after the shirts and socks of the man who lives in a hotel or a boarding house?" puts in Mrs. Ransom.

HOUSEWIVES AIDED, TOO
"We opened the shop," she continued, "expecting to cater largely to professional people, but a large part of our trade is coming in from housewives themselves."

"Only yesterday a woman frantically besought our aid. Her husband would need his evening suit on Friday night and would expect to find it as he had put it away."

"She begged us to look. We did. The suit had at least 50 moth holes in it."

"It's a new suit, and he'll never forgive me," the woman said as we could, sent it to a tailor and had it nicely pressed, and the husband went to his social affair quite unconscious of the true state of his suit."

"One wife brings us all her mending to do, then proudly displays it to her husband as her own work. He thinks she's a wonder and admires her economy so much he always rewards her with a check."

CANT GET HELP
Miss Anderson says that greatest difficulty has not been to find mending to do but to find menders to do it. She employs a large staff of women, to whom she assigns the work. It is done under her supervision.

"Fine mending never has been an art in America," Miss Anderson says. "We frequently have to send to Holland or France for the needles and yarn we need."

There's a human as well as a practical side to the business that makes it decidedly fascinating."

As a commercial proposition, too, she recommends it to women who feel the urge for a shop.

Adventures Of The Twins

Sis Sparrow is beautified. Dr. Snuffles and Nancy and Nick were on their way home through Old Orchard when the heard someone crying.

It was Sis Sparrow.
"Goodness," said kind Nancy. "Are you sick?"

"Yes. Sick of being mud-colored," squeaked the little bird-girl. "Why can't I be handsome like Will Woodpecker? He's got a bright red head and wonderful white wings with black on 'em."

"You can see him a mile off. But I! Ugh! When I'm on the road, or on a fence, or in a puddle, you can't see me at all. I'm just plain old ugly brown."

Now I can't tell you all that happened, my dears, but Nancy and Nick and the fairyman doctor began to whisper together, and in a minute they said something to poor Sis, who brightened up immediately.

The next thing Sis was going home with them to the place by the blue-berry patch where Dr. Snuffles lived.

And then—in about 10 minutes—out came a lovely looking bird with a head as red as a holly-herry and wings as black and white as this newspaper.

Of course you've guessed it. It was Sis Sparrow.

She flew over to the chestnut-tree in the meadow, and from there over to the fence.

"I'll have to hunt for a handsome place to live in," said Sis to herself. "My won't folks be looking at me now?"

She was right! Hungry Hawk, always on the lookout for a meal, had seen her bright red head and made a swoop.

"Whatever it is, it must be good to eat because it's so pretty," he declared greedily.

Poor Sis! It almost came to being the end of her.

EVENING FROCKS

A stunning evening gown is of white crepe, with an elaborate design worked out in green beads, and has a low girle of sabie.

TURBANS STAY FOREVER

Large hats come in and out of style, but the turban is unconcerned by it all. It's much smarter than the big hat, and it knows it.
Here is an example of what may be accomplished with cre ribbon if one has a knack for millinery. It is softly draped about the face and finished at the side with wide loops.

This side treatment is new, and you can see for yourself how becoming it is.

Cinderella Sally

Chapter 9 — Sally in Beauty Contest

By Zoe Beckley

START HERE TODAY

MARTIN, a photographer and friend of SALLY, an orphan girl, has taken her photograph and sent it to a beauty contest. Sally is employed in an ice cream parlor having fled the insults of a new-rich mistress, though the woman's son, STANLEY, had befriended her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
What really had prompted Martin to send Sally's photograph to the beauty contest was pride in his work. It had hardly entered his mind that the picture could win.

The most he hoped for was that it might be printed in the big city paper with the line beneath, "Martin, Photographer, Branchville, Ia."

He was closing his studio one evening, hurrying to take Sally for dinner at the Commercial House (she always said her biggest treat was eating a meal someone else had cooked) when the station "hack" halted in front of his building.

A young woman with the unmistakable air of big town in her smart and sensible dress and her crisp air of knowing exactly what she would do next stepped out, glanced at the display window and addressed Martin.

"I believe you're just the man I want to see. You're Alan Martin, aren't you?"

"Yes, ma'am."

"Well, I'm from the American News Syndicate. I think you entered Miss Angela Rose in our beauty contest?"

"Yes, ma'am," again answered Martin, but with widened eyes and a more alert manner.

"The girl became a shade more cautious."

"She may have won. She's among the survivors anyhow. I have been sent to decide and report. Where can I see Miss Rose?"

"Won't you step into my studio?" said Martin politely. He thought fast as the young woman went briskly up the stairs.

He was almost as excited as though he himself had won the contest. The prospect of untold developments was so dazzling that he wanted to think matters over.

For one thing it meant Sally would be leaving for the big city. Did he want her to do that?

A moment later he was ashamed of his selfishness. To shut Sally off from her great chance because he would miss her!

"What—would be ahead of Sally—of Miss Rose?" he asked cautiously of the newspaper woman as she stood turning over his show photographs on the glass case, among them Sally's.

"Well, that depends—would depend on her. But I'm not sure she's chosen yet. I really must see her. Then I could talk it over personally with her."

"Listen, lady—" Martin wasn't exactly sure how you addressed a stylish newspaper reporter of the female gender from great New York, but he was very earnest about Sally, "you'd have to convince me that this business doesn't mean danger for that girl."

"I've read about the Manhattan Proliferates and I hear there are as many girls hurt by them as made. I guess you won't do any that?"

The reporter was expressively silent. She knew he was right and hadn't the heart to misrepresent things. She liked Martin. And she knew the world.

Household Hints

BUNNY ERMINE

"Bunny Ermine" is the name given the new white rabbit fur which is so frequently combined with chiffon and silk in the new winter styles. This is usually white, but is sometimes dyed in delicate tones of pink, gray and blue.

SMARTEST MILLINERY

The smartest hat of the moment is the small, round turban of folded silk or fabric. It adheres strictly to the shape of the head and is usually of bright or figured materials.

PEARL AND JET

Pearl and jet are being combined this season every successfully. A very attractive necklace is made of alternate beads of jet and pearl, graduated in size, and reaching the waist-line in length.

FRONT DRAPERY

Drapery caught up directly in front and held in place at the low waist-line with a buckle or ornament of some sort is the very popular model of the fall. It is newer than the side-drape.

DARK FROCKS

Dark frocks of Poiret twill or serge are brightened up with bits of bright colored silks or Persian or Indian embroideries. Colored braids are also used to advantage.

FUR LININGS

Fur linings for cloth wraps are greatly liked. A very voluminous, circular cape of black velvet with elaborate beading is lined with ermine. The wide collar is also of this fur.

REAL BEAUTY IS WITHIN REACH OF EVEN MOST PLAIN

Women Whose Personalities Make Them Beautiful Are Most Interesting

The most original woman photographer is Mary Dale Clarke who specializes in the difficult subject.

While many photographers prefer the pretty face, Miss Clarke takes greater interest in the frankly plain and the more than middle-aged and makes them as interesting in a photograph as they are to their best friends.

Her success is founded on her unique working theory.

"There are two types of women, those who have beautiful faces, and those who have beautiful moments," she says. "Of the two, the latter class is most artistically pleasing."

"When a woman is regular featured and classically beautiful, you admire her but she does not pique your interest as much as the woman who may be plain ordinarily, but who becomes beautiful and radiant when she talks to you, or when her interest and enthusiasm is kindled."

"Such a woman gives you a goal to work for. You know her possibilities and you want to realize them for her."

SECRET OF APPEAL
"Often you hear it said, 'Why did that handsome man marry that plain-looking woman?'"

"The point is, that she probably isn't plain to him because he is able to bring out in her face the beauty which to others is invisible. It has the charm of being his own individual possession."

The beauty that comes from earnestness or interest, which flashes for a moment, dies out and returns again, is much more vivid and striking than that of the even-featured variety, and such beauty is within the possibility of everyone."

It is her ability to create "moments" for her sitters that has made Miss Clarke so successful with "difficult subjects" and has made her artistic studio on Fifth Avenue in New York the place where people of importance are bound to come sooner or later.

HOW SHE LOVES IT
She has a wide range of interests herself, and a tact and sympathy which immediately brings out the best in her sitters.

"The chief reason most women do not take good photographs is because they overdress for them and can't look natural," she explains. "A woman buys a new frock to have a picture taken in. That is so silly. She should wear something in which she feels natural and easy."

"I always urge my sitters to dress simply so that the interest will lie in them, not in their clothes. If they want photographs of a certain frock it would be better to take it alone and center the attention entirely where it is supposed to be."

Miss Clarke was a portrait painter until seven years ago when her eyes became too weak for such close work. So she taught herself photography and now does all her own printing, retouching and developing.

"I prefer photography to painting," she says, "because it gives one a chance to meet so many more interesting people."

CONSUMERS LEAGUE IN CAMPAIGN FOR MORE LAWS

Wisconsin is being circled by the Consumers league of Wisconsin with a 7-plank legislation platform contained in a pamphlet which includes a summary of the protective laws passed for the protection of female and child workers.

The 1923 legislative program includes increased appropriation for the board of vocational education so that 200 scholarships may be granted to needy children instead of the present 200; supervision over children working in beet fields by the state industrial commission; supervision by the industrial commission over women working in hotels; an 8-hour day for women; maternity aid for working mothers; abolition of the prison contract system; and the adoption of unemployment insurance.

LONG LINES
Long chains and necklaces are helping to accentuate the long lines that are the vogue this season. Long fringes, reaching sometimes from the shoulder line to the hem, are another way of achieving the long effect.

BAKED APPLES
By Bertha E. Shapleigh
Probably no fruit is enjoyed more universally than the apple when baked. The children enjoy it and it can be taken for the school lunch. In dairy lunch places baked apples and cream are in great demand.

Select sound, medium-sized apples. Wash and core. The skin may be removed or left on.

When skin is allowed to remain cut through the skin an inch or two from the stem around the apple. This allows the apple to expand in cooking and it is less likely to lose its shape.

Place apples in a baking pan. Add one tablespoon sugar and one teaspoon butter to each apple.

Pour in enough water to cover pan after the apples have cooked for 10 minutes. Bake often with the sirup formed by cooking.

IVORY COMB
Carved ivory makes one of the largest and loveliest kind Spanish combs yet seen. It shows up to best advantage on jet black hair, pulled back tightly from the face or meekly parted in the middle and drawn plainly down over the ears.

DOUGHNUTS

By Bertha E. Shapleigh

1 1/2 cups sugar
1 tablespoon butter
2 eggs
1 cup sweet milk
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon soda
2 teaspoons cream tartar
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon nutmeg

Beat together the sugar, butter and eggs. Add milk and flour sifted with soda, cream tartar, salt and nutmeg. Mix thoroughly, and add from one-half to one cup flour or sufficient flour to make a stiff dough which will drop from the spoon.

Place in ice box or in a cold place overnight for several hours.

Roll out and fry.
Many cooks find it difficult to make doughnuts which, if they keep their shape when cut, are too stiff.

The housekeeper who gives this recipe makes the best tasting and best keeping doughnuts the writer has ever eaten. She attributes her success to the small amount of flour used and the standing for a long enough time to make it possible to handle a soft dough.

MARRIAGE A LA MOHE

Among certain Indian tribes it is the custom for a woman to present her future lord with an embroidered and beaded leather jacket of her own make and a whip.

The whip is symbolic of her absolute submission, but it is said to be most infrequently used. The Indian seldom gives his squaw any gifts save the trophies of his hunt.

THREE-PIECE COSTUMES

A very elaborate three-piece costume of dark red velveteen has a short jacket of moleskin and mole-hair trimmings. The skirt, Caracul cloth frequently is used in similar ways and makes a less expensive costume than mole.

IF YOU ARE WELL BRED

You attend to such details as filing your nails, fixing your hair, powdering your face and administering make-up before you leave your home.

The flapper's habit of attending to such things in the presence of others is a reprehensible one that is never indulged in by discriminating women.

LEARN A WORD EVERY DAY

Today's word is STULTIFY. It's pronounced—stul-ti-fy, with accent on the first syllable. It means—to make a fool of. It comes from—Latin "stultus," foolish.

It's used like this—"Mexico has succeeded, rather cleverly, in stultifying the United States by her complaint concerning the killing of two of her citizens during the labor troubles at Herrin, Ill.

Beloit Counting Chicks In Advance, Due For Few Surprises, Is View Here

Consider Themselves Winners Of Little Five Conference—Forget About Lawrence Grid-ers Entirely

BELOIT college, according to sport dopsters there, has the Little Five championship clinched and all that remains is to fight it out with Ripon. Lawrence is forgotten entirely.

It's beautiful stuff and all that The Beloit alumni even in this city seems to gobble it up, spoon and all.

Maybe a new line of thought will be injected into Coach Mill's machine when it comes in contact with Coach H. D. McChesney's gridders Saturday afternoon on the Beloit campus.

SOMETHING NEW Beloit is due to learn something new about football if the plans of the Lawrence coach are a success. Lawrence defeated the Gold squad by a score of 35 to 0 in 1921 but the Lawrence gridders will face a different football aggregation this year.

In the game Saturday with Northwestern of Waterloo, the Beloit men uncovered a lightning like attack and routed the visitors by an overwhelming score of 64 to 0. The "bear stories" sent out prior to the game about the crippled condition of the Beloit men apparently were swallowed whole and some of it was meant for the consumption of the school here.

With Beloit fairly well versed with Lawrence's style of play as the result of last year's game Coach McChesney is sending his men through some new plays. Departure from straight football tactics as usually used by the Lawrence men features the new line of action.

INTERGOV REVISION Not only have the tactics been changed but also the personnel of the team is undergoing a decided revision.

At least four chances are scheduled, two in the backfield and two in the line if the scrimmages conducted this week mean anything. "Regulars" have been forced to the sidelines but according to Coach McChesney they will be in their berths back as soon as they show the required pep.

Tuesday evening the Blue and White gridders were set against Coach Denney's high school warriors. With only five regulars in the high school lineup, the college team had little trouble in gaining their objectives. Gerhard Kubitz who alternated at half and quarter last year, called the signals for the college squad. Center Bonini of the high school was the only man from Denney's injured list able to participate and the big fellow was about the only opposition to the college line. However, with the second team acquainted with nearly all of the college plays, the high school squad proved more useful than would have the freshmen.

Plans are being made to have the Green Bay professional team on the Lawrence field before the Lawrence men leave for Beloit.

BELOITERS HONOR "SWEDE" DAHLGREN

Beloit — George "Sweede" Dahlgren, midwestern conference champion discus thrower and star Beloit college football and basketball man, waited until his thirty-third year before he was given the honor of leading the Beloit college "B" club. But 2,314 votes he athletes here Tuesday unanimously elected him President Dahlgren was a star for two years at Beloit in 1913 and 1912. He then left school until last year when at the age of 32 he resumed collegiate work. Last year he was mentioned as an all-western tackle. He graduates next June.

WILLIAMS IN SHAPE TO PLAY IN SATURDAY GAME

Madison—Wisconsin players will be in good condition for their first conference game with Indiana on Saturday.

Capt. Williams, who was on the bench for both preliminary games, has recovered, and Harris plunger half back, will also be able to participate on Saturday. This will put the first string back field into action for the first time, with Taft at full and Barr at quarter. Gibson, who was hurt on Saturday, is not serious injured and will be fit for his half back position in a day or two.

In the line, Bellows, Christensen, Hoffield, and Ribenstein should be in shape to take their places this week.

GREEN BAY GRIDDERS PLAY MILWAUKEE SUNDAY

Milwaukee—Cub Buck, the former Wisconsin star, who is captain of the Green Bay professional team, will bring his all star eleven here on Sunday to tackle Milwaukee's great aggregation of piebald warriors at Athletic park. Buck has one of the best eleven in the country and the game promises to be more keenly contested than the Racine-Badger game won by Milwaukee, 20 to 0.

The Badgers are in training daily and are drilling on a number of new plays built around Pollard and Robinson, the Gold Dust Twins, whose playing featured the battle with Racine.

About 500 Green Bay fans will come here for the game.

Washington—Leo Diegel, former New Orleans professional bear, beat Mitchell, British professional 5 up, and 4 in a special 36 hole golf match.

WANT DAYLIGHT SAVING TO HELP GRID TEAM

Hamilton, N. Y. — In order that the Colgate football team might have ample time for practice it was on Tuesday unanimously voted by the student body to petition the university faculty for daylight saving, to last during the remainder of the football season. Coaches have been considerably hampered in developing the team, because a large number of the squad have classes until late in the afternoon. One hour more of practice would aid materially.

See His Grin? Thinks California Will Win

BY BILLY EVANS

What about California? Football enthusiasts in the east are already asking this question.

California's sudden rise to fame in the football world has caused Coach Andy Smith's eleven to be a much talked about aggregation.

Last year California was known as the "wonder team." At present that title will hardly apply, as a number of stars have been lost through graduation, and the ability of their successors is still uncertain.

Coach Andy Smith, never inclined to be boastful, says California will again demonstrate its superiority by winning another western championship.

At this writing it looks very much as if California's most dangerous foe will be University of Washington. Coach Smith frankly admits that the Washington game is certain to be troublesome.

A majority of the stars in the Washington lineup this year are players who attended the same high school and have been playing football together for the past six years. This is sure to be a distinct advantage to the coach in developing team play so essential to success.

University of Southern California is not saying a great deal, although it has high hopes for a most successful season. The material is good.

Stanford is an uncertain factor. The eleven will largely be made up of green material. A trio of last year stars remain, Wilcox, Ludcke and Captain De Groot.

California will again present a wonderful back field. The line is rather uncertain. It may develop into one of the best California has ever had. Several of the forwards have great promise but have yet to prove their worth under fire.

The famous "Brick" Muller is still on the job. Nisbet, whose remarkable punting featured the work of California last season, is back. In addition Coach Smith has Berkeley, Nichols, Erb, Morrison and Clarke.

Of the new performers the most promising are Spaulding, a halfback; Perry, fullback; Gallagher, center; Beam and Witter at tackle.

Coach Andy Smith is decidedly optimistic. He feels that with six members of last year's wonder team in the lineup, he should be able to develop another eleven that will win the Pacific Coast conference championship.

WOLVES LEAD 2ND WARD BALL LEAGUE

STANDING OF TEAMS	W.	L.	Pct.
Wolves	5	1	.833
Lions	4	2	.666
Tigers	2	4	.333
Bears	1	5	.167

Not to be outdone by the Lincoln school, the First ward school organized an indoor baseball league and has been playing for more than one week.

The Wolves are in the lead with five games won out of the six played, but captains of the other teams say they will not permit the Wolves to stay on top all the time. Games will be played "until snow begins" and the Lions, Tigers and Bears will have plenty of opportunity to demonstrate their skill.

Arnold Fabel is captain of the Wolves. Herbert Lutz is in charge of the Lions. The Tigers are led by Robert Schmidt. Meyer is the pilot of the Bears.

SPORT VIEWS AND NEWS

It never rains but it pours. The White Sox lost the city series in Chicago to the Cubs by the score of 2 to 0 and the same night they were hauled into the Sox offices. This is adding insult to injury but probably the Old Roman smiled through it all. There are not many like him in the baseball world.

The globe trotting ball players are on their way and during the next three months they will try to preach the gospel of American baseball in many of the countries around the circle. The Yankee diamond stars probably will have some keen battles on their hands in Japan where our national game has a strong hold but on the other stops the competition will have to be furnished by the two squads themselves. The players are going to fight shy of the Near East and some of the other queerest spots although the outline calls for several exhibitions in the land of Erin.

Unless the dope goes astray, Coach Richards' Badgers should pick up a comfortable margin in Saturday's Big Ten piebald conflict at Madison. The Hoosiers didn't lack any too good against the Gophers and unless they show a complete reversal of form, Wisconsin will hop out in the conference race with a win. The Madison was looked pretty good in the Carlton and South Dakota games.

MEETING TO DECIDE ENGLISH POLITICS

By Associated Press. London — The meeting of unionists called for Thursday at the Carlton club is almost certain to bring the political crisis to a head. Until its decision whether to break up the coalition or stand by Premier Lloyd George is known the situation is not expected to develop materially in any direction. The attendance at the meeting is to be confined to the Unionist member of the house of commons and the Unionist peers who are members of the government. Thus it will not be representative of the entire party.

While it is agreed everywhere that the meeting will lead to events of utmost consequence, opinions are much divided as to exactly what will happen on Thursday.

The alternative views are, first, that Mr. Chamberlain's defense of the coalition and his admission thereto backed as it will be by Lord Birkenhead and Sir Robert Horne and perhaps other ministers, will bring him a vote of confidence by a large majority.

A second view is that the meeting will declare against adherence to the coalition, which would be equivalent to a vote of no confidence in Mr. Chamberlain as a Unionist leader in the commons.

ASKS POLICE HELP TO FIND DOG; OFFERS $50

Assistance of the police department has been sought by E. R. Erickson of Waukesha in locating an Irish female terrier lost on Sept. 24. The dog is understood to have been lost in this locality.

Bulletins offering a reward of $50 for return of the canine have been issued here and mailed to all police departments in this part of the state. The dog is a child's pet and the owner therefore is eager to have it returned.

LAWRENCE TO PLAY AT CORNELL OCT. 27

Decide To Play Game Out Of City To Give High School Entire Stage

Lawrence college football team will play Cornell college Oct. 27 at Mt. Vernon, Ia.

Decision to play at Iowa was finally reached at a meeting Tuesday night of the Lawrence Athletic board with Coach H. D. McChesney. Officials of both schools agreed upon a game when it was learned that the Milwaukee School of Engineering would be unable to keep the date scheduled for Oct. 28 but with each college wishing to play the game on its own field final arrangements were withheld until Tuesday night.

Lawrence gave way to the Iowa school not only because of its insistence to have the game there but because it learned that the high school had its principal game scheduled for that Saturday in Appleton.

High school officials are particularly pleased with the action of the college. With Lawrence gridders out of the city, the high school will be in a position to command the entire attention of the football fans.

EXPECT FOREST CUTTING TO BE HEAVY THIS YEAR

Birchwood, Wis. — More lumber will be cut next year as a result of gigantic logging operations, than has been cut since the close of the war, it is believed, judging by activities in the woods this fall and winter. More lumber companies have started operations in the forest in this region and a tremendous cut of both soft and hardwood timber will result. Wages are expected to be good and it is thought that logging companies will have no difficulty in getting enough help. Lumber camps are now equipped with semi-modern conveniences and the new type of camp is expected to appeal to many men who never before worked in the forests.

Buenos Aires—Dr. Walter Simons, former German minister for foreign affairs who is in Buenos Aires in connection with the International Law conference, declares that the commercial relations between Germany and Argentina have come almost to a halt.

'Y' BOYS TO ELECT MAYOR ON FRIDAY

"Municipal" Campaign Reaches
Hot Climax As End
Draws Near

Friday will be as big a day to the youngsters of the Y. M. C. A. as Nov. 7 will be to the voters who take part in the great fight for or against "Bob" LaVallette. Friday is election day in the boys' division and will end a keen battle among three parties to place a candidate in office as "mayor."

Voting booths will be placed in the social rooms and the election will be conducted as any municipal election would be. The polls will be open from 5:30 in the afternoon to 8:30 in the evening with official clerks in charge.

Rapid approach of election day is bringing the fight among the three parties to a climax. The candidates, Alvin Rehke for Everybody's party, Harold Finer for the Reliance and Norman LaFosse for the Super Progressives, are doing their best to win their acquaintance and the supporters are busy every day making votes for their men.

Signs adorn every bulletin board the counter, martini and every place they can be put without losing the official raise a protest. Some are unique others bold and demonstrate effective political publicity work. Some of it is quite unique and original work and it is possible that one of the slogans will be used permanently. It is that of the Reliance party, "Know, like and boost the Y."

Open Next Week

The Treasure Box Gift Shop is now filled with many new and attractive things. There are Place Cards, Tallies and Prizes for bridge parties, and Cunning Things for children's parties.—790 College Ave., (upstairs.)

Fewer Salutes

New Army Regulations Make It
Unnecessary for Enlisted Men to Salute Officers Every Time
They Pass.

Army saluting, formerly required on practically every instance where officer met enlisted man, has had its use restricted materially, national guardsmen have been informed.

Criticism against the so-called "aristocracy" of the army has led federal authorities to look upon the rendering of the hand salute upon every occasion as unnecessary.

Under the new regulations just published the enlisted men no longer need salute officers when passing on the street unless they have the occasion to address them.

In effect salutes will be required only on military reservations or where there is occasional addressing of an officer in the transaction of business. They will not be required to salute even at posts or in camps during games or mess or on social diversions. Lieut. Col. E. S. Driver, assistant adjutant general of the state, declared that the new regulations affect the national guard and a guard army alike and will go into effect immediately.

CHURCH TO STUDY INDUSTRY FACTS

Presbyterians Of Synod Name
Committee To Survey
Relations

Presbyterian churches of Wisconsin will make a study of industrial relations and two men of this locality are responsible for helping to start the move. They are the Rev. L. W. Wright, pastor of Memorial Presbyterian church, and S. F. Shattuck of Menasha.

These men were impressed with the work done by Dr. H. E. Peabody, pastor of the First Congregational church of this city. He was one of the promoters of the idea in the Congregational denomination, and the work done by a state committee during the last year or two was so highly important that the Presbyterian men wanted the same task attempted. The synod therefore appointed a committee to make this industrial study.

Several other important things were accomplished at the recent synod meeting at Superior. The meeting time was changed from October to July, and Camp Cleghorn, near Waupaca, will be the location of future synod gatherings, carrying out the camp idea so successful in other synods and denominations.

A drive for an endowment of $1,000,000 for Carroll college also was set in motion.

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS OPOUSE CITY MANAGER

The final debate in the "Problems of Democracy" classes at Appleton High school on the city manager plan was an unanimous negative decision. The vote of the class was one for the city manager plan, 13 for the aldermanic system and 11 for the commission form of government. In another class where the vote was taken on the three plans, seven were for the city manager, ten for the aldermanic and two for the commission form. In the first two classes which held the debates on this topic, the vote of the class was taken only on the city manager and aldermanic plans.

Urge Women To Register So They Can Vote Nov. 7

Duty Of Men To See That Their
Womenfolk Are Eligible
To Cast Ballots

Nearly 1,000 qualified women voters in Appleton are not yet registered for voting at the final election. The day of registration is not far distant, Oct. 31, when they must go to the polls in order to be able to use their right to vote as all good citizens should.

Little concentrated effort is being made by the women as a whole to get all the women in Appleton to vote, although a great deal of individual discussion is taking place. Many of the women who have not voted in the primaries are in the careless or too busy class. After the primaries some of these women said that it just happened that they were coming on election day and could not get away and that in the evening, they were just too tired.

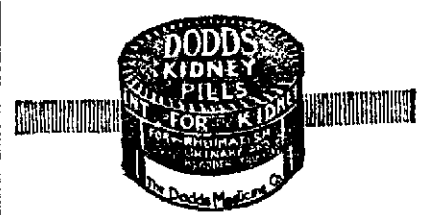

Effort is being made to make the men realize that unless the women in their families cast their votes that the men have failed in their duty. Many women, who are naturally reticent about going to the polls the first time would go if their husbands and fathers urged them to go, or, better still, offered to take them. The attitude is growing among political leaders that a man to be loyal to his candidate must not only cast his own vote but he must influence to the best of his ability all the votes in his family as well as his circle of friends. Several instances have been cited of the disappointment of children who are being trained in citizenship in the schools because their mothers laughed at the idea of going to the polls to vote. Where the children are taught their duty to the government of both school and country the fact that their mothers do not do their civic duty makes the children ashamed.

Star Richly Gowned in "Her Husband's Trademark"

The skins of twenty-two Australian opossums were required to make up the new, rare opossum-fur coat worn by Gloria Swanson in some of the scenes of her latest picture, "Her Husband's Trademark," which will be presented tomorrow at Fischer's Appleton.

Mrs. Ethel Chaffin, head designer at the Lasky studio, secured only after much time and search, the ten black and white opossum skins and the twelve black opossum skins with which the coat is made. Mrs. Chaffin designed this stunning new creation especially for Miss Swanson to wear in this picture.

THE COAL FINDING COMMISSION

The seven commissioners chosen by President Harding to investigate the coal mining industry are the kind of men who may be expected to do their work thoroughly and faithfully. They were not chosen to represent in a prejudiced sense either the mine owners or their workmen. They were chosen primarily to represent the public. They have no special interest in either capital or labor, but are friendly to both. They have no grievances against either. Some of them are scientists and others are practical experts.

The coal industry requires a permanent solution. There has been over-production, with an over-supply of labor. Living and working conditions have been far from satisfactory in many mining localities. The conditions under which the coal industry has been conducted are detrimental to the public interests. They are also detrimental to the interests of labor.

It is wholly illogical and absurd that with an abundance of coal deposits that will last an indefinite period we should be subject to periodical fuel famines, and that we should have to pay excessive prices for our coal. There must be some way to solve the problem presented by these facts. If the problem is not solved within a reasonable time the demand for government ownership and operation of the mines will be irresistible notwithstanding the fact that such a change might not improve the situation.

The coal finding commission and its work are of the greatest public importance. It is to be hoped there will be concrete results.

WHY HEALTH IS BETTER.

When a normal child is born to healthy parents in the average home in this country at the present time he is expected to live more than 51 years. This is fully 10 years more than could be anticipated only a generation ago.

Since improved hygienic conditions began to prevail some 50 years ago there has been no setback, but uninterrupted progress toward the ideal has been made with the result that we now experience less pestilence and disease, more years of life, less loss of time and substance due to illness, greater efficiency and more happiness.

The year 1921 was a banner year. The lowest death rate on record prevailed very generally over the country, but especially where there is marked efficiency in public health work. No one outside a madhouse would think of attributing this salutary change to accident or good luck; it has been earned by conscientious and continued effort.

A gratifying change of opinion is noted relating to ventilation of homes and an appreciation of the benefits of out-of-door life. The old musty "spare room" parlor has given way to the sunny veranda and the stuffy sleeping room in which no "night air" was permitted to enter has been well opened up and the sleeping porch added. People are eating less and exercising more.

If we are to reduce tuberculosis, annihilate typhoid fever, and control other diseases we must apply with greater zeal the knowledge we possess relating to sanitation, hygiene and disease prevention.

STOP THE LEAKS—SAVE COAL.

To save money and coal, inspect your house.

Stop all unregulated drafts through the house.

Use storm doors and storm or double windows, at least on the side of the house facing the prevailing cold wind.

Plug cracks around or in all windows and doors. Use felt, if necessary, under outside doors. Reset door hinges if necessary.

See that there are no cracks in window casings or between walls and casings, or between the sash. Tighten sash locks. Use putty and weather stripping where necessary.

Inspect windows and walls of attic. Dead air in an attic keeps the lower stories warmer. Plug up any openings from attic between walls. In basement plug any openings from outside or between walls. Cover furnace and steam and hot water heating pipes, if practicable.

Close openings between walls and use newspapers under the carpets if there are drafts through the floor.

Study manufacturers' directions as to care of furnace. Replace cracked or broken grates. Examine dampers of fireplaces. When fireplaces and stoves are not in use dampers should be closed. Clean chimney and stove pipes periodically or whenever necessary.

Look windows when closed. Draw shades, if practicable. Turn off heat in rooms with windows left open and in unused rooms. Remember that good ventilation is possible without large openings.

Remember that thermometers are better gages of heat than are the various members of a family, each with his own idea of heat. Seventy degrees in ordinary weather is a normal, healthful temperature for a room in which people live.

Remember that these suggestions imply a possible saving of millions of tons of coal this winter.

HIS BACK AGAIN TO THE WALL

Prime Minister Lloyd George of Great Britain again has his "back to the wall" in a political fight that is attracting international attention. The attacks upon his Near eastern policies have led to another ministerial crisis. Perhaps Mr. Lloyd George is at his best when he is defending aggressive policies. He is opening a campaign preparatory to going to the people for approval or disapproval of his administration. Opinion is divided as to whether he will be retired or whether he is due for a new lease of power.

Party government in Great Britain is now divided three ways, so that a coalition government of some sort has become almost a necessity. The two main parties continue to be the liberals and conservatives, but the labor party holds enough strength to be virtually the balance of power. At present it is a coalition of the liberal and conservative parties. In fact it is the union which has kept Lloyd George in office so long. It was essentially a war combination, but it has been maintained through stress of circumstances ever since. All this time he has been the target for attacks by the ultra-conservatives, and he has had to manufacture his majorities with each new crisis.

It would be idle to say there are no other men in public life in Great Britain capable of conducting the government successfully. The trouble seems to be that no man of this type has as yet been able to muster enough political strength to make him either a leader or a formidable rival. Lloyd George is regarded as a disappointing party man, but whoever succeeds him, if he remains in office long, will have to be of this stamp.

After all is said and done, Lloyd George has served his country with distinction and high credit through the most momentous period in British history. He has conducted his nation successfully through the greatest war of all times, through the greatest labor crisis it has known, through the Irish problem, through the difficulties of peace readjustments and through the threatening Near eastern crisis. They are achievements, any one of which in the past would have immortalized the name of the man connected with it. They have been possible only through a resort to methods and practices that strict party men denounce. But the fact that they have been realized would seem to justify the means of their accomplishment. It is still a vital question as to whether Great Britain is in a position practically to dispense with Mr. Lloyd George.

The bird in Kentucky who buried his "used car" after futile attempts to revive it has solved the problem of what to do with 'em.—CLEVELAND PLAIN DEALER

Think of what might happen if some one invented an amplifier to be attached to the still, small voice of conscience.—CINCINNATI ENQUIRER.

Health Talks

Noted Physician and Author

Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writers' names are never printed. Only inquiries of general interest are answered in this column, but all letters will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual case cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, in care of this paper.

BRONCHIAL REFLECTIONS

Doctor these days are looking into the bronchial tubes with the bronchoscope, and finding odds and ends lodged therein, such as buttons, safety pins, teeth, portions of artificial dentures, and successfully removing these accidentally inhaled or inhaled foreign bodies so that happy recoveries are often obtained which would have been out of the question a generation ago. The use of the bronchoscope, however, is a rather serious expedient, resorted to in grave or desperate cases and requiring exceptional skill on the part of the doctor. If we had a bronchoscope as simple to use as the stethoscope, we should hear much less of "bronchitis" and "bronchial trouble," for with such a diagnostic aid universally available, it would soon become apparent to everyone that all that produces cough and soreness or pain in the chest is not bronchitis by any means. When the chest begins to whistle or wheeze there is some ground for intimating the bronchial tubes. Indeed, the doctor with his naked stethoscope or his lightly clothed ear listens for wheezy fine whistling or wheezing and hears such must be before he can positively determine that the patient has bronchitis. A good half of all the cases of alleged bronchitis or "bronchial trouble" have never uttered a single wheeze and are incorrectly diagnosed, whether by the patient himself or by a doctor who uses intuition or second sight rather than ask the patient to bare his chest to the waist for examination.

Acute bronchitis is a very grave illness in the elderly or the very young, though seldom fatal in vigorous adults. It is often the sequel of coryza, unfortunately well known as "cold in the head," but no more attributable to cold or exposure in that sense than diphtheria is. Sometimes acute bronchitis prevails as an epidemic, independent of influenza or other specific respiratory infection. But in most cases it is a complication or a feature or a sequel of some specific infectious disease such as measles, whooping cough, typhoid fever, malaria, or tuberculosis. Persons much exposed to "inclement" weather and to elements are much less subject to bronchitis than those who are carefully kept indoors who take extravagant precautions to "protect" themselves from the weather. To think of acute bronchitis as a "cold settled on the chest," as our benighted ancestors did, is a childish habit which folks ought to outgrow, like fearing the dark.

Children who are kept constantly smothered in heavy clothing, particularly extra layers about the neck and chest, are notoriously susceptible to bronchial inflammation. Were it not for the absurd notion that cold can "penetrate" the chest wall to get at the bronchial tubes or lungs, neither children nor adults would go in for chest protectors or similar coddling. The one encouraging fact about coddling the throat and chest is that the practice prevails inversely as the square of intelligence, the greatest amount of superfluous clothing being habitually worn by the most ignorant and superstitious classes whenever the weather is not to their liking. Notwithstanding dire warnings, it has turned out that girls and women wearing less than a blush on their chests in several kinds of weather are rather less susceptible to bronchial troubles than their old-fashioned mothers were.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Tonsils of Children

Please give your candid opinion on removing tonsils of children under 5 years of age. I have heard that tonsils should not be removed until after six years of age as they have a certain function to perform. Is that so? I have four boys with enlarged ragged tonsils and when they get sore throats white spots appear. My doctor said it was because the tonsils are infected and should be removed.—(Mrs. R. J.)

Answer—Whether tonsils have any physiological function in infancy or childhood is in the realm of conjecture, since no one can define the function except in theory. Certainly when the tonsils become diseased or infected they are a menace to the child's well-being, even if normal tonsils have a function, diseased tonsils can scarcely perform a good function. So the sensible thing is to have them removed, if possible before the child's health is too seriously impaired.

Lip Sticks And Rouge

Kindly advise me whether the constant use of lip stick and lip rouge brings any form of mouth disease.—(Miss A. T.)

Answer—The habitual application of such chemicals and dyes irritates the mucous membrane and in time produces chronic inflammation of the lips in some instances.

Sweaty Hands

You printed a remedy for sweaty hands.—(W. H.) Answer—One is a daily application to the palms of a solution of 30 grains of chromic acid in an ounce of water, for a week or so at a time. Another is rubbing into the hands each night for a week a pea sized lump of this ointment, which must be placed in a collapsible tube:

Formalin 40 drops
Lanolin 1/2 ounce
Petrolatum to make one ounce
Methyl 2 grains

Resume of American and Foreign Newspaper Opinion

PARTY LINES TODAY ARE MORE

SHELL THAN SUBSTANCE

The attack by Dr. George T. Harding, father of the President, on the Republican candidate for the Iowa Senate on the ground that he "is a Socialist and not a Republican" furnished amusement to many editors regardless of their political opinions. The remarks were predicated on an overplus of "sympathy for his son" rather than to good "political judgment" in the opinion of the majority of the critics. However there is an acceptance in certain quarters of his action as "due to the present day inclination nearly everywhere to regard party ties as burdensome."

"Why should a declaration of this kind cause a political stir when it is obvious on its face that it rests on principle to which no sound exception can be taken?" asks the Green Bay PRESS GAZETTE, (Ind.). "The answer is that most of our politicians and too many of our citizens have become slaves to the party label and are willing to see obnoxious acts committed in its name and imposters elected to positions of public trust merely because they have, through trickery and deceit, managed to get on the party ticket. Dr. Harding is voicing independence of character and thought that can find worthy emulation in innumerable quarters."

The Philadelphia PUBLIC LEDGER (Ind.) suggests that the "Doctor is possessed of much more pep than his boy Warren; he can talk a blue streak and make every word tell, and the somersault he breezes into a room every body in it is his friend. Son Warren is acquainted personally with Papa George and knows that no influence, filial or otherwise, can stop that downright person from saying and doing just what he thinks he ought to do." The statement, however, rather would emphasize that "party lines" were being rubbed out." The Boston GLOBE (Ind.) holds and suggests that at least "the distinction between Democrats and Republicans is being supplanted by lines of demarcation which will mean something. Even so, the Norfolk VIRGINIAN PILOT (Ind. Dem.) says that "one wonders if Dr. Harding's boy will appreciate his parent's taking up the paternal cudgels against one who—radical tendencies notwithstanding—is a member of the party which put the administration in office."

The doctor, the Schenectady GAZETTE (Dem.), thinks, "has put forward a strong and logical plea with much emotion for voting the Democratic ticket in five or six great states. If this new advice is taken the 'progressives' will be driven from the party by separate 'peace' understandings in each individual instance. This means in time a great reborn Liberal party which cannot fail to find greater solace and reliance in the Wilson foundations of political science, together with the best that was in the early Roosevelt programs, a new Jeffersonian party of the people, which will probably search far and wide for any simpler, truer name than the 'Democratic Party.'"

The New York WORLD, (Dem.), rather sarcastically suggests that "this puts the issue squarely to the test. Is he, for Brookhart or for Harding for the Senate? Surely he will speak out on this subject in no uncertain terms. Does he break with his party or with his family? And the Minneapolis TRIBUNE (Rep.) thinks it "doubtful if Dr. Harding himself knows the President's views," while the Dayton NEWS, (Dem.), suggests "he has opened the closet and exposed the skeleton of disappointment. The President, he says, has too many Bolsheviks around him now in Washington. The inference, of course, is that any progressive statesman is a capital thorn in the side of the administration. Any Senator who doesn't continue to be regular is classed as a Bolshevik."

From a purely political viewpoint the Charleston POST, (Ind. Dem.), feels that "this solicitude for Warren's comfort is admirable and his plan of relief is to be commended and ought to be widely extended. If enough Democrats are sent to the Senate, the good Doctor's Warren would have a much easier time and his responsibility for the government be considerably lightened."

The POST also thinks that "the chances are that Dr. Harding is saying what most of the more responsible members of his son's party are thinking. An unruly Republican is more difficult for them to handle than just one more minority Democrat. Dr. Harding may be naive but he shows a firm grasp of the fact that the primaries have caused a Republican rift that augurs ill for party tranquility." His attacks in his remarks on Senators Borah hardly was warranted in the view of the Worcester TELEGRAM (Rep.) because the Idaho Senator is a firm supporter of the constitution. He made trouble for Mr. Wilson and perhaps makes trouble sometimes for Mr. Harding. But to make trouble is not his ambition. His stand against the bonus bill has been a help to the administration."

The Fort Wayne JOURNAL, GAZETTE (Dem.) thinks the statement of the President's father demonstrates that "in the chaotic, drifting state of the party today nothing is more certain than the fact that nothing is certain as to just what Republican policy is at this time. This is a tragic situation for the country with the Republican administration having two more years to run."

There may be a connection, the Salt Lake TRIBUNE (Rep.), suggests, "between Dr. Harding's Des Moines outburst and the Clinton meeting of Republican leaders which adjourned to Des Moines and formally bolted Brookhart. The Des Moines revolt and its progress will be watched with increasing interest everywhere, but presumably nowhere in the more genuine concern than in the office of Madison where Dr. Harding prescribes for his patients." In the opinion of the South Bend TRI-

BUNE, (Ind. Rep.) however, "the old gentleman ought to keep his upper garment on. It is true that the nominee in Iowa is a radical progressive, named as a protest against existing condition. But if the grand old party cannot stand the infiltration of new blood, the election of men and women who think along more progressive lines than have been the rule, then it deserves to expire because it has its face against nature." The Butte MINER (Dem.) points out that "it would create a political sensation throughout the United States if Iowa should elect a Democratic Senator this fall, and while that appears to be hardly probable, it is within the line of possibility. Years ago that state occasionally elected a Democratic Governor but the MINER cannot recall it sending a Democrat to the upper house of Congress; still these are times when all manner of precedents are being broken so that it is not always safe to judge what will be by what has been in the past." It is pointed out by the Grand Rapids PRESS (Ind.) that "the bolters in Iowa are jumping a ticket set up by the primary system. Brookhart, instead of running up his own flag and losing out as the radical he really is, simply decided to sail under party colors, use the convenient port of a many-sided Republican electorate and win. At least that is the opinion of the 'genuine' Republicans of Iowa. The Democratic candidate trims nearer 'real' Republican thought than does the Republican nominee. In fairness to all parties some way should be found to set up the principles first and prevent poaching of outsiders on party grounds."

BANK "BOOKIES" DEAL IN MILLIONS
London—The manner in which high finance in London deals in foreign exchange is related as follows by the financial correspondent of the Express:

Most people would imagine the inside of the City headquarters of one of our great banks as a place of immense dignity, cathedral calm, soft foot-falls on pile carpets, and the "fast" picture of a picture, is suggested by a famous picture of Britain's twenty-four most decorous directors seated round an immense boardroom table, with some mere underlings of joint general managers standing respectfully in the background.

This may apply to a boardroom of itself but the impression would be rudely shattered by a glance into the private sanctum where the foreign exchange transactions are carried out.

Here is a jungle of telephones—private wires leading direct to the other banks of the "Big Five," to the leading foreign banks, and to certain important dealers in foreign exchange. Some young men hang all day long over the telephones and the rapid mechanical calculators. They are men of a type which has sprung up since the war—a new type in bank and their general characteristics are the same in France, Germany, Switzerland or America, wherever hectic foreign exchange transactions are carried through.

They are cat-like in mind, accustomed to instant decision on buying and selling. They have a "poker voice" over the phone, and their mode of speech is apt to be reminiscent of "The Ring."

A telephone rings. One of the young men jumps to it: "Want a million francs? Wait a sec." His own "book" in francs is filled for the moment. But perhaps a bank clerk instantly plugs into a private wire: "Thirty-seven? Hold a sec." Back he plugs into the original connection: "Offer a million at seven thirty-seven."

Decisions of buying and selling are made with lightning rapidity. They have to be. This young man has the possibility of making (or losing) a bucketful of money for his bank inside a week, depending on his judgment in seeing opportunities and his cleverness in "squaring his book" in francs, in marks, in kronen, and what-not. In marks, especially, he wants to "square-up" every day, because London is not the determining centre of the world-price. The price of marks is "made" in New York and Amsterdam, where the dealings are heaviest and speculation most hectic. He must not be caught by a squall from New York, where dealings continue for five hours later than London.

The bank "bookie" is not free, however, to speculate in millions as he likes. His "bookies" have to balance up daily, and meet the scrutiny of the level-headed men who are responsible to the public for the great sums of money entrusted to the great banks.

ENGLAND TO AUSTRALIA BY PHONE
London—Wonderful possibilities in long-distance telephoning are opened up by a new invention which is exhibited at the National Institute of Inventors, 35 Sackville-street, says the Daily News.

Philanthropic Fans

Since 1910 nearly two and a quarter million baseball fans have paid five and a half million dollars to see world series games.

A reader writes, suggesting that "this is an awful waste of money. Think of the starving people that could be fed by five and a half million dollars."

Money paid for baseball tickets and other forms of theatricals is not wasted. It merely changes hands and goes on circulating the same as before. Actual economic loss is small. Spending, not hoarding, is what makes prosperity. After all, the baseball fan has a lot in common with the philanthropist.

Mme. Kalich, the actress, returns from Europe where she had a long talk with the kiddie, George Bernard Shaw. She says Shaw is weakening on his decision not to visit America, and he might come if he could shake off his fear that he would have to attend American banquets.

If George waits a couple more years, he can visit us safely, for prohibition is rapidly driving the banquet to extinction. Oratory, except of the highest grade, goes begging when liquor is not served as an antidote.

New York holds a celebration of the 102nd anniversary of the birth of Madame Goldschmidt, the Swedish Nightingale, known in musical history as Jenny Lind. A statue will be erected to this famous coloratura soprano, in Battery Park.

There was only one Jenny Lind, Germany. We stand corrected. Just as there will never be another Caruso. Old-timers say that to hear her was to get a glimpse of paradise. Music is one of life's most intimate contacts with the spiritual.

Big Jim Hanbery, formerly a Kansas school teacher, was wounded 44 times during the war, left on the field for dead, and honored by funeral and memorial services in many towns.

However, he showed up living, is a reporter in Omaha, and recently was decorated with the distinguished service cross.

Forty-four wounds! And he's still alive. Hypochondriacs, morbidly terrified at the slightest ache and pain, should paste this in their hats.

Birds of paradise plumes and wings $15,000 worth of them, are seized in raids on nine millinery shops in New York City. To get their property back, the owners must prove that the plumage was legally in their possession before the passage of the wild bird feather exclusion law in October 1913.

Gents with red noses might view this as "infringement on personal liberty." What is the difference between prohibiting booze and prohibiting feathers?

French statistics, recently circulated, show that Germany since the end of the war has paid only $400,000,000 cash indemnity, or $161 a year for each German.

Lang, German consul in New York City disputes. He claims that the figure should be $522,000,000 instead of $400,000,000. That would make the cash indemnity payments $2.10 a year, instead of $1.61, for each German.

Incidentally, Lang claims that Germany has paid about $9,825,000,000 total indemnity, to date, including value of lost territory and other property surrendered.

THE QUESTION BOX

Q. What kind of an exhibit will the United States have at the Brazilian Exposition? E. L. B.

A. The sum of $1,000,000 was appropriated by Congress for a suitable building and exhibits at the Brazilian Centennial Exposition at Rio Janeiro which will represent the progress and activities of the United States in so far as the Government itself is concerned. Private enterprises will also be represented at the exposition, but they will not be housed in the Government buildings. Firm doing business in South America formed a company and raised funds to insure that the business interests of this country would have adequate representation at Rio. A building known as the American Industrial Exhibition Building has been erected and practically all the space in it has been taken. It is expected also, that the Government will send a fleet to Rio during the exposition that will compare more than favorably with the naval exhibition made by any other country.

Q. Why is islinglass so called? O. McC.

A. This word is a corruption of the German haushaus, the name for sturgeon. Islinglass is made from the bladder of the sturgeon.

Q. How did islands happen to be called that? H. T. P.

A. This is an Anglo Saxon word of which the derivation is not clear. Probably it followed the custom observed in saying headland, neck of land, tongue of land, brow of a hill, mouth of a river, back or foot of a hill and arm of the sea. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the unfailing remedy in such cases. Thousands of American women will testify to this fact who have regained health and strength by its use. BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little live-colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel.

The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "lory" and "heavy." They "clear" clouded brain and "perk up" the spirits. 15c and 30c.

LONDON USES RUBBER TO PAVE ITS STREETS

Rubber for street paving is regarded so favorably in London that according to a dispatch from that city there is a possibility of St. Martin Lane being paved with blocks of that material as an experiment.

While at St. Pancras station in London 25 years ago, A. J. Ingold observed several workmen take up a section of rubber pavement that had been down for quarter of a century. The wear did not exceed one-sixteenth of an inch.

ORDINANCE KEEPS BUSSES AWAY FROM CONGESTED ZONE

Fifteen-Minute Service Results
From Enforcement Of
New Rulings

People using motorbuses Wednesday had to look up and down the street once or twice to find their particular vehicle. The new city ordinance concerning parking and schedules went into effect Monday and some of the stopping places are now in restricted zones.

One result of the change was the establishment of 15-minute service from Appleton to Menasha, Neenah, Kimberly, Little Chute and Kaukauna. The busses leave on the hour and half hour and the interurbans 15 minutes before and after the hour to comply with the stipulation that vehicles traversing routes where street cars operate on schedules must leave 15 minutes before or after the departing time of the street car.

CHANGE PARKING PLACE
No motorbuses are permitted to park on College-ave. in the blocks between Appleton and Morrison-sts. nor on Oneida-st. between Lawrence and Washington-sts., under the new regulations.

Busses of the Homan line to Neenah and Menasha now stop on Appleton-st. south of College-ave. Kaukauna machines stop on Morrison-st. north of College-ave. Both lines pass through the restricted zone to pick up passengers. Black Creek-Seymour busses and those of the Green Bay line stop near the College-ave. and Appleton-st. corner.

RADIO NEWS

The second meeting of the Appleton High School Radio club was held in the lecture room of the high school Monday evening.

A short business session was held after which various radio diagrams were explained to the club by the president. The members were given information as to what types of apparatus were best to use in their radio sets. The advantages and disadvantages of radio sets now on the market were described for the benefit of those who buy complete outfits. The first lesson in international code signalling was given for the new members. Many of the new members have already mastered the code alphabet. A speed of five words per minute is expected to be attained in a short time.

At the next meeting Monday, Oct. 23, a general instruction in fundamental electrical principals as applied to radio will be given by Miss Turner, instructor.

The club wishes to increase its membership at the next meeting as no person will be enrolled after next Monday.

A running account of Marquette university football games will be broadcasted from the Marquette station W H A D at Milwaukee every Saturday afternoon between 3:30 and 4:30 and between 4:30 and 5:00 p. m. Tune up to 360 meters.

Following is the Marquette schedule:
Oct. 24—Carroll college.
Oct. 21—Chinook Flying Field.

Oct. 23—Creighton at Omaha (service will be wired to Milwaukee for radio).

Nov. 4—Haskell Indians.
Nov. 11—North Dakota.
Nov. 18—University of Detroit (Homecoming Game).
Nov. 30—South Dakota.

Radio may be the means of averting train wrecks.

Experts are already working on the possibilities of wireless in the saving of lives and property along railroad rights of way. Their idea is to invent a system of signaling by radio which would be absolutely fool proof.

Entire elimination of the human factor is the ultimate goal and radio may be a step toward it. A signal sent out from a stalled train could

MISSION SOCIETIES HOLD MEETING HERE

Reports And Addresses Make Up Program For District Conference

The annual convention of the Appleton district of the Women's Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist church opened at 1:45 Tuesday afternoon in the First Methodist church. Talks on mission work were given by Mrs. F. T. Richards, Janesville; Miss Mary E. W. Barnes, Milwaukee, and Miss Elsie Reik, Milwaukee.

The banquet at 6:30 Tuesday evening was followed by a program in which the members of Appleton King's Herald presented a pageant. The Rev. Ira E. Schlagenhauf, Neenah, gave the address.

The session opening at 9:00 o'clock Wednesday morning was devoted to annual reports of the department chairmen. Among the speakers were Mrs. Lee Blood, Green Bay; Mrs. A. E. Schaub, Sun Prairie; Miss Elsie Reik, Milwaukee; Mrs. H. C. Cooley, Appleton; Mrs. M. Basche, Green Bay; Mrs. I. D. Wood, Manitowish; Mrs. Cora Martin, Green Bay; Mrs. C. D. Bulley, Marinette.

Miss Elsie Reik, Milwaukee was to speak Wednesday afternoon at the closing session. Final reports of committees were to be made. Officers will be elected and installed.

be caught by the engineer of an approaching train in time to avert a collision.

This is possible at present with the semaphore system, but experts believe radio warnings will make it foolproof. If the engineer for some reason disregards a radio warning, some sort of radio-controlled apparatus may be used to stop the train before it is too late.

Public Library Port Of Missing Notes And Bills

Have you lost a love letter, a check, a five dollar bill, an ordinary first-of-the-month bill, a pair of scissors, a pen knife, some corn plaster, some samples of goods or anything else like a hair net, a few hair pins, a finger nail file or just anything? Well, you probably used it to the library book mark and took it to the library. Librarians at the Public library say that persons who use the books are liable to leave almost anything in them and that they use everything for book marks. Hundreds of hair nets have found their way to the library waste basket by way of the returned book. Literally thousands of hairpins have gone the same way.

Although love letters are not frequent, first-of-the-month bills are found nearly every day. Many checks are found by the librarians and most of them are indorsed. One day $33 in signed checks was found. Enough samples to make a patchwork quilt have gone, never to return to their seekers.

Besides leaving things in the books, people also leave things in the library itself. A great mystery is yet unsolved, all caused by a pair of men's shoes, large sized and somewhat the worse for wear. They were left on the literature shelf and discovered by a horrified librarian. She watched the shelf carefully, told all the others to watch it to see who the owner of the shoes was. But alas, he came for his shoes. (may even have changed them in the library) and on one saw him.

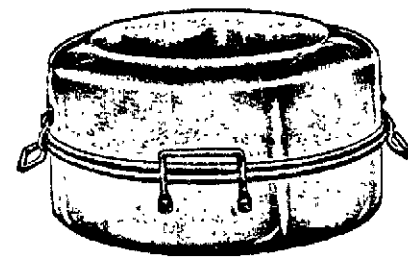

Some advocate of a "stitch in time saves nine" had a box of buttons and a needle and thread behind a stack of books. A sack of doughnuts, a day or two old, was also found by a hungry librarian and there are always empty candy boxes. A child's dress, wrapped in a package is being kept for the owner. Now and then a peanut bag is left with a peanut or two for the finder.

WANT ZONA GALE'S PLAY IN APPLETON

Wisconsin Players Hopeful Of Presenting Prize Production Here

The Wisconsin Players, Milwaukee, one of the foremost groups of actors in the Art Theatre movement, is making negotiations with Appleton Women's club, with Lee C. Rasey, principal of Appleton High school and with Mrs. Mary Marguerite Arens, head of the dramatic department of Lawrence conservatory, to bring Zona Gale's greatest play "Miss Lulu Bett" to Appleton. The players, of which Miss Gale was one of the first members, are making their first state tour with an all Wisconsin cast to produce this prize play by one of Wisconsin's foremost playwrights.

Miss Gale has rewritten the third act of the play for the state tour and it is said that this third attempt at the third act is really the most inspired of the three.

The first production by the players will be in Milwaukee on Nov. 10 and 11 and immediately afterward the state tour will be commenced. Interest in Appleton over Miss Gale's production will be greatly enhanced by the memories of her visit to Appleton two years ago. It is understood that it was largely through the efforts of this enthusiastic writer and worker that Theta Sigma Phi, the national honorary journalistic fraternity for women, granted its chapter to Lawrence college.

Hundreds of young people in the city who have taken part in amateur productions of "The Neighbors" will be delighted to see "Miss Lulu Bett" produced by the foremost group of actors in the state. Mrs. Laura Sherry is directing the production.

SPIED TODAY

TRAGEDY FOR HER

As I was in one of our local department stores Monday, "I Spied" a large woman carrying many bundles. She looked more like a walking department store than a woman, just her head was sticking out above the bundles. As the day was rainy the floors were very slippery and to the amusement of the onlookers the woman slipped and fell and the bundles flew in all directions. The woman picked herself up as quickly as she could and blushing received the bundles from the amused onlookers.

She made a hurried exit and was last seen walking down the avenue at a high rate of speed.

CARELESS DRIVING

While on my way to Green Bay Sunday I saw a Buick car that wanted to pass a Ford. The Buick driver blew his horn and the Ford pulled to one side. The Buick did not go out far and when the driver thought he had passed he turned in suddenly and caught the Ford by the front wheel and tipped it into the ditch. No one was hurt.

FOOL HARDY STUNT

On North St. the other day, I noticed the dry leaves all around the curb at the city park. A boy came along on a bicycle and threw a heated match into the leaves. They started to burn and he had quite a time to put the fire out.

NEW KIND OF PULLMAN

The other morning I spied a little boy about 5 years of age riding on a bicycle to which a fair sized cart was attached. Riding in the cart and calmly smoking a briar pipe was a young man about 6 feet tall.

FORD FINISHES SECOND BEST

As I was passing "Terrace Gardens" Monday morning I spied a Ford runabout with both wheels off and all the windows broken lying on its side in the ditch. It was hit by a Bay State touring car. The touring car was not damaged but the Ford was a sad affair.

HE SNEAKED AWAY

Yesterday as I was in the street, I noticed a fellow running to catch the car for Kaukauna, and just as he was about to approach the car he dropped a bottle out of his pocket which apparently broke. In a few minutes there were about 25 people there to see what the bottle contained, and to their surprise it was "Moonshine." It did not take him long to disappear.

While walking by the Russel Sage dormitory I saw two young men endeavoring unsuccessfully to start a Ford truck. After cranking it vigorously and finding it unresponsive they pushed it till they reached John street hill. They gave it a start and while it was going down the hill it started and they crawled in and drove away. They were very embarrassed, young men who looked neither to the right nor left.

OUR STREET SIGNS

Monday night I saw a tourist stop his car at a street corner in the Third ward and ask a pedestrian where Fourth-st. was. The pedestrian could not tell exactly, but informed the tourist where the street signs were. Mr. Tourist then brushed away the leaves, struck a match, and after reading the inscription on the "permanent marker," proceeded with the search.

NEARLY LOST HER SWITCH

Last Saturday evening my friend and I were in Wichmann Bros. Grocery Store. My friend was standing near the counter while I was seated beside her. Suddenly she exclaimed, "Who's pulling my hair?" I turned around to see a lady walking toward the door with a long string attached to the bundles she was carrying, the ball of string at the counter unwinding as she walked on. The string had also caught in my friend's hair. One of the clerk's ran after the woman and entangled the string, much to the amusement of all in the store.

DON'T WANT CHILDREN

ENGINE DIES

Waiting for a street car at a busy corner on North-st. I was kept constantly amused and interested by the various methods employed by drivers of automobiles in crossing the tracks and meeting other cars.

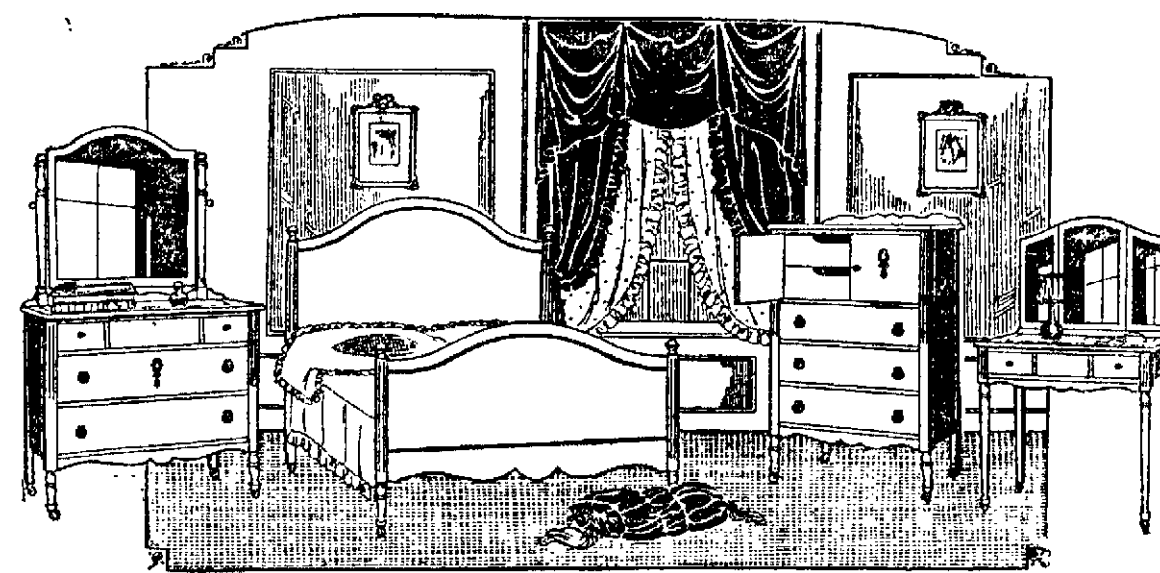

Two cars suddenly appeared on the scene, going in opposite directions. They slowed down to avoid a collision and unfortunately killed their engines.

Both cars were without self-starters so the drivers, after getting out and using a few hasty motions—they had too, the street car was coming—hurried away.

100 AD MEN WILL INVADE CITY FOR VALLEY MEETING

Response From Neighboring Cities Is Liberal—Local Group Invited

More than 100 advertising men will visit the city Thursday as guests of Appleton Advertising club at the conference and banquet arranged here Green Bay, Oshkosh and Fond du Lac will send large delegations and about half the membership at Wausau will come if weather permits of an automobile trip.

Most of the local merchants and manufacturers who were extended an invitation have responded but a few places are being held open at the banquet for the remainder to reserve places.

It is believed that this will be the biggest advertising gathering ever staged in this locality. There is to be an open forum in the French room of the Sherman house at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, with E. S. Cleveland, Milwaukee, and Verne C. Divine, Chicago, in charge.

The banquet is to be held promptly at 6 o'clock in the Venetian room with E. S. Goldstein, Cleveland, Ohio, and John Buckley, Chicago, as the speakers.

STUDENTS LISTEN TO NURSING TALKS

Miss Carol L. Martin of the Central Council of Nursing Education spoke to the students of Appleton high school on Wednesday morning regarding the opportunities in the nursing profession. After her talk, more than 30 girls took advantage of the opportunity to talk more definitely with her concerning training schools and courses.

The speaker pointed out to the girls the numbers of divisions of the nursing field in which there are many excellent positions. She told of the Red Cross workers of the county and school and of the opportunities in foreign service. She urged the girls to take their training in schools where a definite training is given, not in smaller hospitals where the student nurses are taken because of a shortage of help.

Candy Gifts To Best Girl Passe Among Modern Youths

Where in the world do all those boxes of candy go, that are being sold daily? The young men aren't buying them for their best girls and certainly the married men aren't carrying them all home for their wives to consume.

When our fathers went to call on our mothers in the old days they rarely thought of going unless they carried some little token of their affection, such as a box of candy. Their reasons might have been many but nevertheless the candy went. The inevitable box was tucked under "his" arm until the lengthy trip to see "her" was over and then at just the proper moment it was presented.

Oh, yes, candy is just as good as it ever was, and some of it is even better, but for some reason the young men of today fairly gasp when you casually mention the fact that it wasn't such a bad habit after all. One young man, who does consider able "steeping," although he said his best girl didn't live here, was quite frank when he said he would never think of staying home for a whole evening with nothing more than a box of candy. "It is so uninteresting."

The truth is, it just isn't done any more by the young men, they prefer entertaining their girls, and incidentally themselves, in some other way. A dance, with a long stay in an ice cream parlor afterwards, costs much more money but seems to be more enjoyable.

Habit is a ruthless thing, according to candy merchants who declare the situation is reversed from that of fifty years ago. The married men are now buying the boxes of candy, or rather still are buying them. Maybe they are carrying on a lifelong courtship or maybe it is because they boast an incurable sweet tooth.

UPHOLD DECISION OF LOWER COURT

Defendant in Auto Accident Case Loses Appeal To Circuit Court

A jury in circuit court sustained for the second time in one day a verdict of a municipal court jury, when it declared in favor of the plaintiff in the case of Louis Larson and Charles A. Sparling, representing the Novelty Cleaners and Dyers against John Weyenberg Tuesday afternoon.

Action had been brought by the plaintiff to secure $250 for alleged damages incurred by his automobile in a collision with the automobile of the defendant on Lake-st, Aug. 17. A counterclaim of $60 had been filed by Weyenberg. The jury directed Mr. Weyenberg to pay the plaintiff the sum of $111.57, the same amount fixed by the municipal court jury.

Tuesday afternoon a jury sustained the verdict of the municipal court when it found Mrs. Ida Grundemann guilty of using abusive language.

NEW HEAT CONTROLLING APPARATUS AT COLLEGE

A new heating control apparatus will be installed at Lawrence college before snow fall to take the place of the thermostat control machinery, which was not successful in keeping the temperature at not more than 70 degrees in any of the buildings. The company which installed the former controls find that conditions in the electric current and water supply in Appleton make it impossible to use their original machinery. The change in apparatus is being made by the company.

VETERINARIANS AT CONVENTION HERE

Two Dozen Men Attending Conference At Sherman House This Afternoon

More than two dozen veterinarians of this part of the state are attending the second annual meeting of the Northeastern Wisconsin Veterinary Medical association at the Sherman house.

The opening session was to have been held at 10 o'clock, but due to the late arrival of some of the men from a distance the entire program was put over until the afternoon session.

Dr. William Madison of Appleton, president of the association, called the meeting and arranged the program in which Dr. L. A. Merrill, a prominent Chicago veterinarian, is taking part.

After luncheon and a round table discussion at the Sherman house the afternoon program opened with a clinic at Madison hospital on Washington-st. This was followed by the annual business session.

The meeting will close with a banquet at 6 o'clock at the Sherman house which will be followed by addresses and discussions.

FIRST "CLARION" GOES TO H. S. STUDENTS TODAY

The first number of the twenty-fourth volume of the Appleton High School Clarion made its appearance after school on Tuesday. The issue, which has several new features, is dedicated to the freshmen class. The staff is larger than ever before and is representative of all groups of students in the school.

A page of pictures of prominent people is to be used each month. The first page has the pictures of "Cap" Harris, the janitor, Dorothy Adair and John Voight, cheer leaders, "Bill" Tappert as a cow puncher and "Dede" Driesse, the captain of the football team. There is also a memorial page dedicated to Catherine Drysdale, who died Sept. 15.

FOUR INITIATED INTO ROTARY CLUB

Membership Is Divided Into Four "Football" Teams To Swell Attendance

Four new members were initiated into the Rotary club at its luncheon Tuesday noon in the Sherman house. They were I. D. Segal, Carl McKen, Arthur Scheil and Don C. Dickinson.

Plenty of amusement accompanied the initiation. There were several surprise stunts that gave the Rotarians a laugh at the expense of the "victims."

Soloe were given by Miss Lucile Meusel of Lawrence Conservatory of Music as part of the program.

BIG EATERS GET KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts at First Sign of Bladder Irritation or Backache

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble, because we eat often too much red meat and all our food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid which the kidneys strive to filter out; they weaken from overwork, become sluggish, the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache, or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or if you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys; to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus often ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia water beverage and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.

BIG PROBLEMS FACE CHURCH CONFERENCE

United Lutheran Church Of America Opens Meeting
In Buffalo

Attention of members of Trinity English Lutheran church is riveted this week on the third biennial convention of the United Lutheran Church of America which opened in Buffalo on Tuesday and continues until Friday. The local church has no delegates at the conference. It is said this conference is facing problems which are attracting attention of churches of all denominations.

The United Lutheran church was formed in New York City in 1918 through the merging of three synodical groups—the general council, the General Synod, and the United Synod of the South. Numerically it is the largest Lutheran body in America. Statistics show a baptized membership of 1,250,000 and a confirmed, or active membership of over 820,000. It is composed of 25 constituent synods reaching into practically every State and having churches in Canada and the West Indies. Its educational system comprises 13 seminaries, 20 colleges, and 7 academies, with a total valuation of $15,000,000. Its foreign miss on work is conducted in Africa, India, Japan, and South America, with an annual expenditure totaling $700,000. The total value of church property and endowment is $80,000,000. The United Lutheran Church, through its synodical constituents, is the oldest Lutheran body in America. It dates back to the time when the Dutch Lutherans settled in New York in 1623, and the Swedish Lutherans settled on the Delaware in 1638, and the Salzburgers came to Georgia and the Carolines in 1734.

FURS AND MYSTERY

By A. Carstensen
Appleton's Furrier

The opossum continues to flourish in America and Australia despite the fact that he is hunted early and late in every season except summer. Most of the specimens in general use in the making of ladies' coats, neck pieces, muffs, etc., come from Australia and are large and pure grey, sooty or black in color. They are also better furred than the American specimens, having longer fleece and ranking higher in value.

In its arborial travels the opossum uses its tail as a hand, not in going up, but in coming down, when it wishes to descend it curls the end of its tail around a branch and fearlessly swings down head first to the limb below, to which it could not otherwise reach and to which it dare not jump. The young opossums are not much larger than mice at birth. While the young are developing the mother carries them in a pouch, where they are perfectly safe from harm, and to which they instinctively retreat when alarmed. Carrying a litter of young seems to be no handicap to Mrs. Opossum as she swings from branch to branch in the trees.

Australia also furnishes millions of rabbit skins annually in black, blue and silvery color. These are a part of the skins used by deceiving furriers in imitating the more costly furs of sable or seal, and for which you are asked to pay a handsome price.

Some of the imitations of today are so clever as to deceive the furrier himself if he does not know his business thoroughly, so

Early Reverses Only Acted As Stimulant To Standard Mfg. Co.

Big Lumber Manufacturing
Concern Fights Uphill Battle
To Place Business On Good
Paying Basis

Once upon a time there was a carpenter who, like all fathers in those days, endeavored to train his son for the same trade which he followed. The son's ambition, however, lay in the cigar and tobacco business. It was only in later years that Louis C. Schmidt became interested in the woodworking industry. His sons are now carrying on the work he began.

The story of the Standard Manufacturing company of Appleton which he established is probably not an extravagant one. Its growth probably would not be considered phenomenal. Although younger than most of the established industries, it nevertheless has experienced a steady expansion in the face of no mean obstacles that its success becomes an important chapter in the romance of Appleton's industries.

FACED COMPETITION
When this company was organized, with L. C. Schmidt, president, Herman Satow, vice-president, and Herman Hecker, Sr., secretary-treasurer, it must have required considerable faith on the part of the founders to look for success with so much competition in the neighborhood that the sash and door factories of Oshkosh furnished. This was in January, 1901.

Even in those days it was asserted that the lumber business had passed its zenith and was on its last legs. But 21 years of manufacture and consumption has not greatly depleted the lumber resources and the building boom of this summer shows that there are still a few frame houses being built.

Organizing with a capital stock of $10,000, the company built its first plant on Lavest, on the site it now occupies. The building was 60 by 90 feet in size and was small in comparison with the present plant. About 20 hands were employed at the time in the manufacture of sash, doors, blinds, store fixtures, interior finishing and cabinet work.

BUSINESS GROWS
Then followed a three year struggle to build up a trade and the company succeeded to this extent that it became necessary to enlarge the business and increase the capital to $40,000. In 1903 an addition was built in the form of a cabinet shop, size 60 by 120 feet. With further expansion of business, the capital stock in 1912 was increased to $80,000.

As the trade territory began to be further developed, more additions were built from time to time. A lumber yard was added in 1918. In 1921 a large saw mill with modern equipment was erected. The company also took over the building of the Standard Body company across the street for warehouse purposes.

The growth of the company may be seen in the fact that it is now capitalized at several hundred thousand dollars, employs about 60 hands in the home plant and produces annually about 3,000,000 feet of lumber.

The company has since its inception furnished sash, doors and window and door frames for a large number of Appleton homes. Of the homes being built in Appleton this summer, about 82 have already been supplied with lumber by the Standard Manufacturing company.

Louis C. Schmidt, founder of the company, died in 1920, leaving the sons to carry on the work. The present officers are R. O. Schmidt, president; Louis J. Schmidt, vice president; Elmer Root, secretary; George Schmidt, treasurer.

ESTABLISH BRANCH
The directors of the company in 1910 also established a branch factory in Fond du Lac for the manufacture of combination screen doors. This concern, known as the Combination Door company, employs about 30 hands. Lou's J. Schmidt is president of the company.

When asked to what he attributed the success of the company, R. O. Schmidt, president, answered, "Hard work and economy."

"We made some mistakes years ago," he said, "and some of them were costly ones. We had to learn just what products produce the quickest turn-over, which is usually desired in business these days. There were some financial losses in the early days, especially when a few contractors whom we supplied failed in business."

"We boys had to put in a good many extra hours. I remember, when ailing was rough, George and I cut ourselves down to a wage earner's pay and put the rest back into the business in order to carry it on."

ARMFUL OF PAPER SAVES GIRL FROM DEATH FROM SHOT

9-Year Old Stephenville Girl
Injured By Rifle Bullet
Fired By Boy

Delia Komp, 9-year-old daughter of Edward Komp, was injured by a rifle bullet at her home at Stephenville Saturday from a gun in the hands of Clarence Casey. It is believed that a catalogue and other papers which she carried against her breast were all that saved her from serious consequences.

The bullet pierced the paper and thus was diverted so instead of entering her lungs it grazed the flesh, tearing a gash about two inches long. Her condition is favorable for recovery.

The girl had walked to the road to empty the family's mail box and was returning holding the papers to her chest as she read a letter. Her cries after the bullet struck her were heard by her father, who came to her assistance.

Make H.S. Kids Wear Green Cap For Seven Days

Nine high school students are going through the experiences of a college freshman who wears the green cap. They are members who were initiated into the H-Y club of the school and one of the requirements is to wear the caps for a week and to "push the button" every time they meet a H-Y member. The caps have red stripes to distinguish them from the college headgear.

Miss Margaret Carrigan and her mother, Mrs. Carrigan, spent the weekend at the home of Mrs. Helen Zebell.

Miss Marie Voss returned to her home, at 426 Walnut-st., after visiting at Milwaukee, Horicon and Beaver Dam.

Casey, had the gun, a 22-caliber rifle in his hands for the first time, it was said, and was shooting at some roosters on the highway. He killed one of these, but one of the bullets went astray and struck the girl.

NEED INDUSTRY PICTURES OF CITY

Large numbers of industrial photographs are wanted by the chamber of commerce and Appleton Advertising club in the joint photo contest which closes Nov. 1.

The chamber of commerce already has a use for some of these views. It is the plan of Secretary Hugh G. Corbett to compile a booklet in the near future dealing with Appleton's industries and products. The pictures which are accepted will be used there.

Views of the interior of plants, showing machines in operation and men at work are needed. Some have been handed in by contestants, but many more are desired. Anybody who owns a camera and can produce clear pictures is eligible to try for prizes offered amounting to $100 in all.

How Much of Your Money Burned Up Last Year?

Last year's fire loss in the United States and Canada was over $500,000,000. In the past ten years $1 out of every $4 spent in new construction has been destroyed by fire.

Each year we burn up enough property to build homes for a city of half a million people—a city as large as Buffalo.

To put it another way, $500,000,000 would have built over 14,000 miles of concrete roads at $35,000 a mile, or 5,000 school buildings at $100,000 each.

Fire loss represents a total loss of natural resources together with loss of time, wages, customers, good will and all the disorganizing effects that follow fire.

In addition fire takes annually an enormous toll of human life.

To drive home the necessity and profit of buildings that won't burn is part of the work of the Portland Cement Association.

Time and time again concrete has proved itself the highest type of fire resistive construction. Concrete buildings command lowest insurance rate. Concrete construction means safety combined with longest life at minimum upkeep. Concrete grows stronger with age.

The Portland Cement Association is constantly assisting every movement directed toward reducing fire waste through the medium of better building. Our engineers are at all times cooperating with builders, architects and others with a view to reducing fire hazards.

Aiding the work of fire prevention is typical of the daily service of the Portland Cement Association.
